So Deep Is The Ocean:

Sid and the Very Hard to Find Squid James O'Hanlon, 2025-06-02 No one has ever seen a colossal squid in the wild but Sid is determined to be the first Join Sid on his exciting quest to find this incredibly rare animal Along the way Sid encounters other strange creatures until he eventually discovers that sometimes the joy of exploration is more about the unexpected journey and not the ending Look closely and you might just find a cheeky colossal squid too Reading level varies from child to child but we recommend this book for ages 5 to 9 Jonathan Cowie, 2013 The second edition of this acclaimed text has been fully updated and substantially expanded to include the considerable developments since publication of the first edition in our understanding of the science of climate change its impacts on biological and human systems and developments in climate policy Written in an accessible style it provides a broad review of past present and likely future climate change from the viewpoints of biology ecology human ecology and Earth system science It will again prove to be invaluable to a wide range of readers from students in the life sciences who need a brief overview of the basics of climate science to atmospheric science geography geoscience and environmental science students who need to understand the biological and human ecological implications of climate change It is also a valuable reference text for those involved in environmental monitoring conservation and policy making California Cultivator , 1900 Extinction Douglas H. Erwin, 2015-03-22 Some 250 million years ago the earth suffered the greatest biological crisis in its history Around 95 percent of all living species died out a global catastrophe far greater than the dinosaurs demise 185 million years later How this happened remains a mystery But there are many competing theories Some blame huge volcanic eruptions that covered an area as large as the continental United States others argue for sudden changes in ocean levels and chemistry including burps of methane gas and still others cite the impact of an extraterrestrial object similar to what caused the dinosaurs extinction Extinction is a paleontological mystery story Here the world's foremost authority on the subject provides a fascinating overview of the evidence for and against a whole host of hypotheses concerning this cataclysmic event that unfolded at the end of the Permian After setting the scene Erwin introduces the suite of possible perpetrators and the types of evidence paleontologists seek He then unveils the actual evidence moving from China where much of the best evidence is found to a look at extinction in the oceans to the extraordinary fossil animals of the Karoo Desert of South Africa Erwin reviews the evidence for each of the hypotheses before presenting his own view of what happened Although full recovery took tens of millions of years this most massive of mass extinctions was a powerful creative force setting the stage for the development of the world as we know it today In a new preface Douglas Erwin assesses developments in the field since the book's initial publication Outlines of Physical Geography George William Fitch, 1856 Marine Biology: A Very Short Introduction Philip V.
