Ecocriticism and Early Modern English Literature Todd A. Borlik,2011-05-11 In this timely new study Borlik reveals the surprisingly rich potential for the emergent green criticism to yield fresh insights into early modern English literature Deftly avoiding the anachronistic casting of sixteenth and seventeenth century authors as modern environmentalists he argues that environmental issues such as nature s personhood deforestation energy use air quality climate change and animal sentience are formative concerns in many early modern texts The readings infuse a new urgency in familiar works by Shakespeare Sidney Spenser Marlowe Raleigh Jonson Donne and Milton At the same time the book forecasts how ecocriticism will bolster the reputation of less canonical authors like Drayton Wroth Bruno Gascoigne and Cavendish Its chapters trace provocative affinities between topics such as Pythagorean ecology and the Gaia hypothesis Ovidian tropes and green phenomenology the disenchantment of Nature and the Little Ice Age and early modern pastoral poetry and modern environmental ethics It also examines the ecological onus of Renaissance poetics while showcasing how the Elizabethans sense of a sophisticated interplay between nature and art can provide a precedent for ecocriticism s current understanding of the relationship between nature and culture as mutually constructive Situating plays and poems alongside an eclectic array of secondary sources including herbals forestry laws husbandry manuals almanacs and philosophical treatises on politics and ethics Borlik demonstrates that Elizabethan and Jacobean authors were very much aware of and concerned about the impact of human beings on their natural surroundings Mixed Faith and Shared Feeling Musa Gurnis,2018-07-31 Mixed Faith and Shared Feeling explores the mutually generative relationship between post Reformation religious life and London s commercial theaters It explores the dynamic exchange between the imaginatively transformative capacities of shared theatrical experience with the particular ideological baggage that individual playgoers bring into the theater While early modern English drama was shaped by the polyvocal confessional scene in which it was embedded Musa Gurnis contends that theater does not simply reflect culture but shapes it According to Gurnis shared theatrical experience allowed mixed faith audiences to vicariously occupy alternative emotional and cognitive perspectives across the confessional spectrum In looking at individual plays such as Thomas Middleton's A Game of Chess and Shakespeare's Measure for Measure Gurnis shows how theatrical process can restructure playgoers' experiences of confessional material and interrupt dominant habits of religious thought She refutes any assumption that audiences consisted of conforming Church of England Protestants by tracking the complex and changing religious lives of seventy known playgoers Arguing against work that seeks to draw fixed lines of religious affiliation around individual playwrights or companies she highlights the common practice of cross confessional collaboration among playhouse colleagues Mixed Faith and Shared Feeling demonstrates how post Reformation representational practices actively reshaped the ways ideologically diverse Londoners accessed the mixture of religious life across the spectrum of beliefs

Defending English Ground Steven G. Ellis, 2015-05-07 A key duty of the Renaissance monarchy was the defence of its subjects For the English monarchy the rule and defence from enemies beyond the long landed frontiers in Ireland and the English far north proved an intractable problem It was not however a duty which was accorded a high priority by successive Yorkist and early Tudor kings nor is it an aspect of state formation which has attracted much attention from modern historians This study assesses traditional arrangements for defending English ground the impact of the frontier on border society and the way in which the topography and patterns of settlement in border regions shaped the character of the march and border itself Defending English Ground focuses on two English shires Meath and Northumberland in a period during which the ruling magnates of these shires who had hitherto supervised border rule and defence were mostly unavailable to the crown Unwilling to foot the cost of large garrisons and extended fortifications successive kings increasingly shifted the costs of defence onto the local population prompting the border gentry and minor peers to organize themselves through county communities for the rule and defence of the region This strategy was generally successful in Ireland where the military threat presented by the wild Irish was not so formidable but in the English far north Tudor reform centralized control and the burden of defence against the Scots soon led to the decay of the borders

Ordained Ministry in Free Church Perspective Jan Martijn Abrahamse, 2020-10-12. In Ordained Ministry in Free Church Perspective Jan Martijn Abrahamse presents a constructive theology of ordained ministry by returning to the life and thought of the English Separatist Robert Browne c. 1550-1633. This study makes a substantial contribution not only by solving one of the most thorny problems in congregational ecclesiology but also by recovering the legacy of this ecclesial pioneer. Through an in depth analysis of Browne's literature the author provides a covenantal theology of ordained ministry in conversation with present day authors Stanley Hauerwas and Kevin Vanhoozer. Inspired by the emerging trend of theology of retrieval, Abrahamse offers a methodologically innovative way of doing systematic theology in a manner in which voices from the past can be made fruitful for today.
