Fair as this looks to the eye British statesmen could not even then in those early days implicitly trust Napoleon without some material guarantee True all was not couleur de rose with the French army and navy The battle of the Nile and Acre still were in sore remembrance Italy had emancipated itself and Suwarrow had materially crippled the French army There were 140 000 Austrians hovering on the Rhine border and the national purse was somewhat flaccid No doubt it would have been convenient to Napoleon to have patched up a temporary peace in order to recruit but that would not suit England On Jan 4 1800 Lord Grenville replied to Talleyrand then Minister for Foreign Affairs in a long letter in which he pointed out that England had not been the aggressor and would always be glad of peace if it could be secured on a sure and solid basis He showed how France had behaved on the Continent cited the United Provinces the Swiss Cantons and the Netherlands how Germany had been ravaged and how Italy though then free had been made the scene of unbounded anarchy and rapine and he wound up thus His Majesty looks only to the security of his own dominions and those of his Allies and to the general safety of Europe Whenever he shall judge that such security can in any manner be attained as resulting either from the internal situation of that country from whose internal situation the danger has arisen or from such other circumstances of whatever nature as may produce the same end His Majesty will eagerly embrace the opportunity to concert with his Allies the means of immediate and general pacification Unhappily no such security hitherto exists no sufficient evidence of the principle by which the new Government will be directed no reasonable ground by which to judge of its stability In this situation it can for the present only remain for His Majesty to pursue in conjunction with other Powers those exertions of just and defensive war which his regard to the happiness of his subjects will never permit him either to continue beyond the necessity in which they originated or to terminate on any other grounds than such as may best contribute to the secure enjoyment of their tranquillity their constitution and their independence

A Genealogical and Historical Sketch of the Stuarts of the House of Castle Stuart in Ireland Andrew Godfrey STUART (Hon.),1854     Sketch of the History of the High Constables of Edinburgh Sir James David Marwick,1865 Text contains historical proceedings of the Edinburgh police force in relation to their established policies     A Sketch of the medical monopolies, with a plan of reform.
