International Handbook of Violence Research Wilhelm Heitmeyer,John Hagan,2005-08-12 An international manual is like a world cruise a once in a lifetime experience All the more reason to consider carefully whether it is necessary This can hardly be the case if previous research in the selected field has already been the subject of an earlier review or even several competing surveys On the other hand more thorough study is necessary if the intensity and scope of research are increasing without comprehensive assessments That was the situation in Western societies when work began on this project in the summer of 1998 It was then too that the challenges emerged any manual especially an international one is a very special type of text which is anything but routine It calls for a special effort the state of the art has to be documented for selected subject areas and its presentation made as compelling as possible The editors were delighted therefore by the cooperation and commitment shown by the eighty one contributors from ten countries who were recruited to write on the sixty two different topics by the constructive way in which any requests for changes were dealt with and by the patient response to our many queries This volume is the result of a long process It began with the first drafts outlining the structure of the work which were submitted to various distinguished colleagues Friedhelm Neidhardt of Berlin Gertrud Nunner Winkler of Munich and Roland Eckert of Trier to name only a few supplied valuable comments at this stage

Homicide Martin Daly,Margo Wilson,2017-07-12 The human race spends a disproportionate amount of attention money and expertise in solving trying and reporting homicides as compared to other social problems The public avidly consumes accounts of real life homicide cases and murder fiction is more popular still Nevertheless we have only the most rudimentary scientific understanding of who is likely to kill whom and why Martin Daly and Margo Wilson apply contemporary evolutionary theory to analysis of human motives and perceptions of self interest considering where and why individual interests conflict using well documented murder cases This book attempts to understand normal social motives in murder as products of the process of evolution by natural selection They note that the implications for psychology are many and profound touching on such matters as parental affection and rejection sibling rivalry sex differences in interests and inclinations social comparison and achievement motives our sense of justice lifespan developmental changes in attitudes and the phenomenology of the self This is the first volume of its kind to analyze homicides in the light of a theory of interpersonal conflict Before this study no one had compared an observed distribution of victim killer relationships to expected distribution nor asked about the patterns of killer victim age disparities in familial killings This evolutionary psychological approach affords a deeper view and understanding of homicidal violence
