The Burlington Magazine Michael Levey, 2003-01-01 For a century the Burlington Magazine has maintained a high reputation for authoritative writing on art history Private Collecting, Exhibitions, and the Shaping of Art History in London Stacey J. Pierson, 2017-01-12 The Burlington Fine Arts Club was founded in London in 1866 as a gentlemen's club with a singular remit to exhibit members' art collections. Exhibitions were proposed, organized and furnished by a group of prominent members of British society who included aristocrats, artists, bankers, politicians and museum curators. Exhibitions at their grand house in Mayfair brought many private collections and collectors to light using members' social connections to draw upon the finest and most diverse objects available. Through their unique mode of presentation which brought museum style display and interpretation to a grand domestic style gallery space they also brought two forms of curatorial and art historical practice together in one unusual setting enabling an unrestricted form of connoisseurship where new categories of art were defined and old ones expanded. The history of this remarkable group of people has yet to be presented and is explored here for the first time. Through a framework of exhibition themes ranging from Florentine painting to Ancient Egyptian art, a study of lenders' objects and their interpretation paints a picture of private collecting activities, connoisseurship and art world practice that is surprisingly diverse and interconnected Burlington Magazine, 1936

Jacob Van Ruisdael Seymour Slive, 2011-06-07 Windmills were ubiquitous in seventeenth century Holland and they remain the best known symbol of the Dutch landscape. Jacob van Ruisdael first depicted them as a precocious teenager and continued to represent all types in various settings until his very last years. Water mills in contrast were scarce in the new Dutch Republic, found mainly in the eastern provinces particularly near the border with Germany. Ruisdael discovered them in the early 1650s and was the first artist to make water mills the principal subject of a landscape. His most celebrated painting Windmill at Wijk bij Duurstede at the Rijksmuseum and the J. Paul Getty Museum's Two Undershot Water Mills with an Open Sluice are the centerpieces of this overview of the artist's depictions of windmills and water mills. Both depended upon forces of nature for their operation but their use in the Netherlands and their place in seventeenth century Dutch art differed considerably. This book examines their role in Holland and introduces readers to the pleasure of studying Ruisdael's images of them, a joy conveyed by the English landscapist John Constable in a letter written to his dearest friend after seeing a Ruisdael painting of a water mill in a London shop: 'It haunts my mind and clings to my heart' The Burlington Magazine, 1904

"The Uses of Excess in Visual and Material Culture, 1600-2010" Julia Skelly, 2017-07-05 Directing unprecedented attention to how the idea of excess has been used by both producers and consumers of visual and material culture, this collection examines the discursive construction of excess in relation to art, material goods and people in various global contexts. The contributors illuminate how excess has been perceived, quantified and constructed, revealing in the process how beliefs about excess have changed over time and how they have remained consistent The collection as a whole underscores the fact that the concept of excess must always be considered critically whether in scholarship or in lived experience Although the idea of excess has often been used to shame and degrade many of the essays in this collection demonstrate how it has also been used as a strategy for self fashioning transgression and empowerment particularly by women and queer subjects This volume examines a range of material including diamonds ceramics paintings dollhouses caricatures interior design and theatrical performances Each case study sheds new light on how excess was used in a specific cultural context including canonical sites of study such as the Netherlands in the eighteenth century Victorian Britain and Paris in the 1920s and under studied contexts such as Canada and Sweden
