"All Shall Be Well" Gregory MacDonald, Robin A. Parry, 2011-01-01 All shall be well and all shall be well and all manner of thing shall be well Lady Julian of Norwich Universalism runs like a slender thread through the history of Christian theology It has always been a minority report and has often been regarded as heresy but it has proven to be a surprisingly resilient idea Over the centuries Christian universalism in one form or another has been reinvented time and time again In this book an international team of scholars explore the diverse universalisms of Christian thinkers from the Origen to Moltmann In the introduction Gregory MacDonald argues that theologies of universal salvation occupy a space between heresy and dogma Therefore disagreements about whether all will be saved should not be thought of as debates between the orthodox and heretics but rather as in house debates between Christians The studies that follow aim in the first instance to hear understand and explain the eschatological claims of a range of Christians from the third to the twenty first centuries They also offer some constructive critical engagement with those claims Origen Tom Greggs Gregory of Nyssa Steve Harmon Julian of Norwich Robert Sweetman The Cambridge Platonists Louise Hickman James Rely Wayne K Clymer Elhanan Winchester Robin Parry Friedrich Schleiermacher Murray Rae Thomas Erskine Don Horrocks George MacDonald Thomas Talbott P T Forsyth Jason Goroncy Sergius Bulgakov Paul Gavrilyuk Karl Barth Oliver Crisp Jaques Ellul Andrew Goddard J A T Robinson Trevor Hart Hans Urs von Balthasar Edward T Oakes SJ John Hick Lindsay Hall Jürgen Moltmann Nik Ansell

D. Cousins, 2016-03-02 This monograph studies how across the Folio of 1681 Marvell's poems engage not merely with different kinds of loss and aspiration but with experiences of both that were in mid seventeenth century England disturbingly new and unfamiliar It particularly examines Marvell's preoccupation with the search for home and with redefining the homeland in times of civil upheaval In doing so it traces his progression from being a poet who plays sophisticatedly with received myth to being one who is a national mythmaker in rivalry with his poetic contemporaries such as Waller and Davenant Although focusing primarily on poems in the Folio of 1681 this book considers those poems in relation to others from the Marvell canon including the Latin poems and the satires from the reign of Charles II It closely considers them as well in relation to verse by poets from the classical past and the European especially English present Christianity & Western Thought Colin Brown, Steve Wilkens, Alan G. Problems of Cartesianism Thomas M. Lennon, John M. Nicholas, John Whitney Davis, 1982 The typical Cartesian collection contains papers which treat the problems arising out of Descartes's philosophy as though they and it appeared for the first time in a recent journal The approach of this collection is quite different The eight contributors concentrate on problems faced by Cartesianism which are of historical significance Without denigrating the importance of the technique of exploiting the texts in a manner that appeals to contemporary philosophical interests the contributors show how Cartesianism was shaped over time by the criticism it received This criticism took place in many areas politics theology natural science and metaphysics and its scope is reflected in this collection of papers The efforts of advocates of Cartesianism to produce a biography of Descartes and the political difficulties they faced are no less a part of the problems of Cartesianism than are the difficulties alleged against the Cartesian ontology of thought and extension in accounting for transubstantiation Seventeenth and eighteenth century theories of the formation of the earth for example were historically part of the same set of problems as the difficulties in Bible criticism These significant issues and many others are discussed in this volume
