

SOCIAL CHANGE

Social change is defined by sociologists as alterations in the basic structures of society or a social group.

APPROACHES

Structural-functionalism

Social change should serve the best interests of society, with the goal of maintaining equilibrium and balance within the social system.

Conflict Theory

Social change happens suddenly when conflict boils over, upending the status quo.

EXAMPLE

The Industrial Revolution

The Industrial Revolution was a period of significant social and economic change marked by the widespread development of new technologies, transportation and communication systems, and the growth of factories and mass production. Urbanization, labor rights, and women's rights took center stage.

Social Change Social Work And The Adoption Of Children:

Social Change, Social Work and the Adoption of Children Alan Teague,1989 Social change, social work, and the adoption of children Alan John Teague,1987 Social Work, Parents and the Child Protection Process Katrin Bain,John Harris,2024-10-18 Despite the pivotal role played by parents in the child protection process little attention has been paid to how social workers perceive them Exploring representations of parents within Children s Services at the levels of policy organisation and frontline practice the concept of citizenship is used to construct a typology with ten variants of parent citizenship The typology reveals the complexities of parental representations and their relationship to the content of policy organisational environments and dominant societal themes as it uncovers how social workers represent parents in their day to day practice The book is a resource that can be used by students practitioners researchers and parent advocacy organisations to evaluate policy and practice and to contribute to the search for the best possible outcomes for families Arguing that parental participation in the child protection process is essential the book increases the visibility of parents and contributes to a much needed dialogue about working with parents in Children s Services

Adoptive Parenthood in Hong Kong Grace Po-Chee Ko,2017-07-05 This title was first published in 2001 A systematic study of non relative adoption in Hong Kong It examines the changing profile of non relative adoption between 1987 and 1993 from the author s analysis of 486 case files Characteristics of the adoptive parents adopted children and their birth parents are presented in descriptive statistics Three predictors of adoption stresses are identified Adjustment in adoption and threat to parental entitlement were positively related to adoption stress parental education was negatively related to it Apart from being more stressful Chinese adopters were found to be significantly different from non Chinese for having a lower level of acknowledgement of difference They are more worrisome over the relationship with birth parents are less ready to reveal adoption have better adoptive parent child relationship and possess higher levels of personal qualities The findings of the study suggest that a post legal adoption service is urgently needed

Global Social Transformation and Social Action: The Role of Social Workers Professor Sven Hessle,2014-03-28 Global social transformation calls for global social action 2010 saw the launch of The Global Agenda for Social Work and Social Development which detailed how social workers can strive to bring about increased social justice The time is right to start to address and demonstrate the actions that might be required to develop and accomplish the Agenda with regard to methods in practice and research in social policy and social work education and in a broader discourse of global commitment and cooperation This informative and incisively written edited collection brings together experts from around the world to discuss issues which the social work and social welfare sectors face every day and to ensure a closer link between evidence based practice policy objectives and social development goals Furthermore this book reveals how these may affect the conditions of people and demonstrate how the social work and social development community can contribute to sustainable development
