Rough and Tumble Travis Pickering,2013-04-10 Travis Rayne Pickering argues that the advent of ambush hunting approximately two million years ago marked a milestone in human evolution one that established the social dynamic that allowed our ancestors to expand their range and diet He challenges the traditional link between aggression and human predation however claiming that while aggressive attack is a perfectly efficient way for our chimpanzee cousins to kill prey it was a hopeless tactic for early human hunters who in comparison to their large potentially dangerous prey were small weak and slow footed Technology that evolved from wooden spears to stone tipped spears and ultimately to the bow and arrow increased the distance between predator and prey and facilitated an emotional detachment that allowed hunters to stalk and kill large game Based on studies of humans and of other primates as well as on fossil and archaeological evidence Rough and Tumble offers a new perspective on human evolution by decoupling ideas of aggression and predation to build a more realistic understanding of what it is to be human
