The Memoirs Of Lord Ismay General Lord Hastings Ismay KG GCB CH DSO PC, 2015-11-06 This memoir is a masterly narrative by a participant at the very centre of British decision making during the entire Second World War Major General Pug Ismay was appointed secretary of the Committee of Imperial Defence in July 1938 and from there became in May 1940 Churchill's senior military assistant and an additional member of the Chiefs of Staff Committee Officially his role was the leadership of the office of the minister of defence Churchill was by then both prime minister and minister of defence and continued in these twin roles throughout the war Ismay saw himself as Churchill's agent and was once flippantly described as his Eminence Khaki Ismay was in a unique position to observe Churchill who became a close confidante Ismay has been praised by several highly placed sources for his achievements in diplomacy and man management during his Army service His tact and charm kept the potential friction between the chiefs of staff and their political masters entirely controlled His ability to ride the sometimes wild swings in Churchill's temperament yet still bring to committees the correct interpretation and thrust of Churchill's views was highly valued This book is a masterpiece of prose It is a remarkable product of its time and is in no way self indulgent It lacks military jargon and acronyms It is full of interesting and humorous anecdotes and provides an excellent account of many aspects of Churchill's non public persona It contains a single monotone plate of the author as well as three organisational diagrams and four maps Not only military historians but anyone with an interest in British history from the 1920s to the 1950s would be greatly satisfied with it Bruce Short RUSI Journal
