Richard Hollis

Soviet Photograph 1924 1937:

The Soviet Photograph, 1924-1937 Margarita Tupitsyn, 1996-01-01 Tupitsyn challenges the view that the Soviet avant garde peaked in the 1920s and was subsequently forced to conform with Bolshevik politics. Instead she asserts that photography during this period represented the last great experiment in the search for the most effective ways to connect art, radical politics and the masses. Investigating the means by which the new visual tools for disseminating revolutionary messages were adapted to the needs of Stalinist propaganda, Tupitsyn relates major examples of single frame photography and photomontage to such events as the implementation of the New Economic Policy, Lenin's death and Stalin's first and second Five Year Plans and to mounting censorship of the arts. She also establishes a link between the writings of critics and the development of photography and photomontage at this time. The book presents previously unpublished material from Klutis's letters, Rodchenko's public lectures, Lissitzky's late writings on the mass media and Kulagina's personal diaries as well as many previously unknown photographs.

Beyond Formalism Margarita Tupitsyn, 1997 Swiss Graphic Design Richard Hollis, 2006 By the 1950s Switzerland had developed a distinct graphic language and a unique style of graphic design. This book gives an account of this period in graphic design history, setting the stylistic developments into the social and cultural context of the times.

Capitalism and the Camera Kevin Coleman, Daniel James, 2021-05-11 Photography was invented between the publication of Adam Smith's The Wealth of Nations and Karl Marx and Frederick Engels's The Communist Manifesto. Taking the intertwined development of capitalism and the camera as their starting point, the essays in Capitalism and the Camera investigate the relationship between capitalist accumulation and the photographic image and ask whether photography might allow us to refuse capitalism's violence and if so how. Drawn together in productive disagreement, the essays in this collection explore the relationship of photography to resource extraction and capital accumulation from 1492 to the postcolonial, the camera's potential to make visible critical understandings of capitalist production and society, especially economies of class and desire and propose ways that the camera and the image can be used to build cultural and political counterpublics from which a democratic struggle against capitalism might emerge. With essays by Ariella Asha Azoulay, Siobhan Angus, Kajri Jain, Walter Benn Michaels, T. J. Clark, John Paul Ricco, Blake Stimson, Chris Stolarski, Tong Lam and Jacob Emery.

Soviet Influence on Cuban Culture, 1961-1987 Isabel Story, 2019-12-04 This book examines the ways in which the Cuban-Soviet relationship was expressed in the cultural sphere between 1961 and 1987. It specifically focuses on the theater and the visual arts to analyze the ways in which the culture became a means of asserting the Cuban Revolution's independence.

Snapshots of the Soul Molly Thomasy Blasing, 2021-07-15 Snapshots of the Soul considers how photography has shaped Russian poetry from the early twentieth century to the present day. Drawing on theories of the lyric and the elegy, the social history of technology and little known archival materials, Molly Thomasy Blasing offers close readings of poems by Boris Pasternak, Marina Tsvetaeva, Joseph Brodsky and Bella Akhmadulina as well as by the late and post-Soviet poets Andrei Sen Sen kov Arkadii Dragomoshchenko and Kirill Medvedev to understand their fascination with the visual language representational power and metaphorical possibilities offered by the camera and the photographic image Within the context of long standing anxieties about the threat that visual media pose to literary culture Blasing finds that these poets were attracted to the affinities and tensions that exist between the lyric or elegy and the snapshot Snapshots of the Soul reveals that at the core of each poet s approach to writing the photograph is the urge to demonstrate the superior ability of poetic language to capture and convey human experience Open Access edition funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities

Making Strange Kim Sichel,2020-03-17 A richly illustrated look at some of the most important photobooks of the 20th century France experienced a golden age of photobook production from the late 1920s through the 1950s Avant garde experiments in photography text design and printing within the context of a growing modernist publishing scene contributed to an outpouring of brilliantly designed books Making Strange offers a detailed examination of photobook innovation in France exploring seminal publications by Brassa Henri Cartier Bresson Robert Frank Pierre Jahan William Klein and Germaine Krull Kim Sichel argues that these books both held a mirror to their time and created an unprecedented modernist visual language Sichel provides an engaging analysis through the lens of materiality emphasizing the photobook as an object with which the viewer interacts haptically as well as visually Rich in historical context and beautifully illustrated Making Strange reasserts the role of French photobooks in the history of modern art

Photographic Literacy Katherine M. H. Reischl,2018-12-15 Photography introduced to Russia in 1839 was nothing short of a sensation Its rapid proliferation challenged the other arts including painting and literature as well as the very integrity of the self If Leo Tolstoy and Fyodor Dostoevsky greeted the camera with skepticism in the nineteenth century numerous twentieth century authors welcomed it with a warm embrace As Katherine M H Reischl shows in Photographic Literacy authors as varied as Leonid Andreev Ilya Ehrenburg and Alexander Solzhenitsyn picked up the camera and reshaped not only their writing practices but also the sphere of literacy itself For these authors a single photograph or a photograph as illustration is never an endpoint their authorial practices continually transform and animate the frozen moment But just as authors used images to shape the reception of their work and selves Russian photographers including Sergei Prokudin

Gorsky and Alexander Rodchenko used text to shape the reception of their visual work From the diary to print the literary word imbues that photographic moment with a personal life story and frames and reframes it in the writing of history In this primer on photographic literacy Reischl argues for the central place that photography has played in the formation of the Russian literary imagination over the course of roughly seventy years From image to text and back again she traces the visual consciousness of modern Russian literature as captured through the lens of the Russian author photographer How Maoism Was Made Aaron William Moore, Jennifer Altehenger, 2024-12-26 How Maoism Was Made features new scholarship on the early years after the Chinese Communist revolution showing how ordinary people in China built socialism through their contributions to industry science and the arts
