Through the Northern Looking Glass Lorelei A. Lambert,1996 These Northern Native Women survive in spite of the harshness of their lives in the boreal forest and tundra They care for and deliver newborn infants far from cities clinics hospitals malls and pharmacies Throughout history women have healed one another Among Native Peoples oral histories and traditional storytelling have always been essential to cultural survival In this book thirteen Northern Native women relate their experiences as survivors of breast cancer They speaking about how they adapted to the disease and look in particular at the ties they have built with family friends and their environment. The book also examines the clashing and blending of medical technology with traditional Native healing methods. An unusual and unique book. The Yale Guide to Women's Reproductive Health Mary Jane Minkin, Carol V. Wright, 2008-10-01. This book is for every woman who has wished for an unhurried personal conversation with a sympathetic doctor who will answer her questions about reproductive health. Dr. Mary Jane Minkin, a gynecologist practicing for more than 25 years, presents a complete and up-to-date guide to a healthy reproductive system for women in their teens through middle age. With warmth and understanding, Dr. Minkin and coauthor Carol V. Wright respond to questions about the gynecological issues that concern women today, including sexual activity, contraception, and family planning. Readers of The Yale Guide to Women's Reproductive Health will learn how the female body works, what problems may arise, and what solutions are available. In short, they will become better prepared to participate in their own health care and to make healthy decisions.

The Art of Grief J. Earl Rogers, 2011-02-10. Art and other expressive therapies are increasingly used in grief counseling, not only among children and adolescents but throughout the developmental spectrum. Creative activities are commonly used in group and individual psychotherapy programs, but it is only relatively recently that these expressive modalities have been employed within the context of clinical grief work in structured settings. These forms of nonverbal communication are often more natural ways to express thoughts and feelings that are difficult to discuss, particularly when it comes to issues surrounding grief and loss. Packed with pictures and instructional detail, this book includes an eight-session curriculum for use with grief support groups as well as alternative modalities of grief art therapy. Dying Hannelore Wass, Robert A. Neimeyer, 2018-10-24. This work provides an up-to-date examination of the ways people face dying and bereavement. In this third edition, previous chapters are thoroughly revised, and new contributors expand areas that have changed significantly. Reflecting the field's complex interdisciplinary character, the chapters cover such diverse areas as psychology, nursing, medicine, AIDS, family studies, sociology, education, philosophy, law, religion, the humanities, and political science, whilst highlighting thanatology's core psychological and therapeutic caregiving dimensions. First, the text offers broad examinations of death systems from the vantage points of various cultural, historical, and disciplinary perspectives. The second section represents the core of the book, offering detailed surveys of the data of death, dying, and bereavement as they relate to different phases of our encounter with death as an abstract possibility and concrete reality. Next are chapters addressing a cluster of death-related issues and challenges that confront us at both a societal and individual level, such as AIDS, and finally, the volume closes with a few reflections on the complexity of contemporary thanatology, framing some issues and recommendations that deserve greater attention by scholars, researchers, policy makers, and practitioners. Also included is a comprehensive resource bibliography on the topic. This text is intended to be of use as a resource for all those interested in reading about death studies, both professionals and students alike. Reconstructing Illness Anne Hunsaker

Hawkins,1999 Serious illness and mortality those most universal unavoidable and frightening of human experiences are the focus of this pioneering study which has been hailed as a telling and provocative commentary on our times As modern medicine has become more scientific and dispassionate a new literary genre has emerged pathography the personal narrative concerning illness treatment and sometimes death Hawkins s sensitive reading of numerous pathographies highlights the assumptions attitudes and myths that people bring to the medical encounter One factor emerges again and again in these case studies the tendency in contemporary medical practice to focus primarily not on the needs of the individual who is sick but on the condition that we call disease Pathography allows the individual person a voice one that asserts the importance of the experiential side of illness and thus restores the feeling thinking experiencing human being to the center of the medical enterprise Recommended for medical practitioners the clergy caregivers students of popular culture and the general reader

Reconstructing Illness demonstrates that only when we hear both the doctor s and the patient s voice will we have a medicine that is truly human The Victoria's Secret Catalog Never Stops Coming Jennie Nash,2002-01-25 Breast cancer made Jennie Nash a wise old woman at the age of thirty six She learned among other things that her instincts are good her kids are really resilient and that in the fight against breast cancer the journey for patients family and friends can be a surprisingly positive life changing experience Some five years younger than the AMA recommended age for mammograms Jennie Nash insisted she be tested not because of a lump but because of a hunch brought on by a friend s battle with lung cancer Jennie was as shocked to discover as her friend had been that cancer knows no age limits From detection and surgery to reconstruction and recovery Jennie gives readers a road map for a journey no one chooses to take She details both the large and small lessons learned along the way the importance of a child s birthday cake the pleasure of wearing a beautiful provocative red dress how to be grateful rather than guilty when someone brings lasagne to the door and that sometimes the only difference between getting to live and having to die is luck A celebration of survival Jennie Nash s account transforms one of life s most harrowing experiences into a story of reassurance and enlightenment "I Thought Pocahontas was a Movie" Carol Schick,James McNinch,2009 A significant contribution to the understanding of systemic racism in Canadian institutions this collection of essays arising out of the unique Prairie context interrogates how professionals practicing in law education health and other helping professions engage with issues of race and culture This book examines the challenges and resistance found within professional groups working with Aboriginal and racial minority peoples For teachers social workers healthcare providers and professors the greatest barriers to working across difference may be themselves and their assumptions about what the nature of the problem of difference is considered to be The authors in this volume advocate question and critique the uses of what are often considered to be binaries of race and or culture They offer examples from professional fields that illustrate the complexity of teaching that finds problems in a culturalist approach as well as a critical orientation that is still found wanting Will addressing inequality as a race gender class or sexual orientation issue provide greater forward movement than focusing on cultural issues The answers in this collection are never either or and must look beyond theoretical orthodoxy for inspiration if not new questions
