Pioneer of the Chinese Revolution ,1990-07 Shimada Kenji is one of Japan's greatest sinologists with formidable scholarly accomplishments in many fields classical Chinese thought Neo Confucianism in China and Japan late Qing thought the 1911 Revolution and Sino Japanese relations This book consists of two long essays touching on one of Shimada's abiding themes the influence of domestic Chinese systems of thought on the development of Chinese revolutionary thought This massive project engages Shimada's greatest strength a profound awareness of and deep study in the history of Chinese philosophy and religion when examining the people and ideas that culminated in the 1911 Revolution and the end of the imperial institution in China Unlike most other scholars Shimada takes his modern protagonists with complete seriousness when they draw on seemingly traditional ideas to justify radical change in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries Zhang Binglin the subject of the first essay in this book is arguably the most misunderstood figure among the key revolutionaries of the 1911 period The appearance of this classic essay Zhang Binglin Traditional Chinese Scholar and Revolutionary 1970 marked the first time that Zhang had been assessed as a whole person Shimada explains how Zhang himself saw the inextricable linkage between a wholehearted devotion to traditional Chinese scholarship indeed the very preservation of that tradition and the revolutionary cause Often dismissed as a crackpot brilliant or otherwise or as a perverse intransigent incapable of comprehending the modern world as it passed him by Zhang has never received the kind of attention in the West that his importance warrants The second essay Confucius in the Era of the 1911 Revolution 1978 deals with an issue that has never before received concerted attention How could the figure of Confucius have been deified by the leaders of the 1898 Reform Movement and less than two decades later be excoriated by the leaders of the May Fourth Movement Shimada analyzes the views concerning Confucianism of all the major groups including the Qing government and overseas Chinese in Europe in the period under study 1895-1919 before suggesting some answers to this fascinating question Staging Chinese Revolution Xiaomei Chen, 2016-11-08 Staging Chinese Revolution surveys fifty years of theatrical propaganda performances in China revealing a dynamic commercial capacity in works often dismissed as artifacts of censorship Spanning the 1960s through the 2010s Xiaomei Chen reads films plays operas and television shows from an interdisciplinary and comparative perspective demonstrating how in a socialist state with capitalist characteristics propaganda performance turns biographies memoirs and war stories into mainstream ideological commodities legitimizing the state and its right to rule Analyzing propaganda performance also brings contradictions and inconsistencies to light that throw common understandings about propaganda's purpose into question Chen focuses on revisionist histories that stage the lives of the founding fathers of the Communist Party such as Chen Duxiu Mao Zedong and Deng Xiaoping and the engaging mix of elite and ordinary characters that animate official propaganda in the private and public sphere Taking the form of personal memories and representing star and youth culture and cyberspace contemporary Chinese propaganda appeals through multiple perspectives complicating relations among self subject agent state building and national identity Chen treats Chinese performance as an extended form of political theater confronting critical issues of commemoration nostalgia state rituals and contested history It is through these reenactments that three generations of revolutionary leaders loom in extraordinary ways over Chinese politics and culture Through the Chinese Revolution Fernand Farjanel, 1915
