The Reimagining of Place in English Modernism Sam Wiseman, 2015-12-11 Analyses key texts by D H Lawrence John Cowper Powys Mary Butts and Virginia Woolf charting their respective attempts to forge new identities perspectives and literary approaches that reconcile tradition and modernity belonging and exploration the rural and the metropolitan

Spirits of Place Jane Brown, 2002 Virginia Woolf E M Forster Rupert Brooke Carrington and L P Hartley and the story of the places that inspired them Five people famous for their books art and unconventional lifestyles in the first half of the 20th century And five people who were drawn towards special rural landscapes that informed their work with a startling intensity From their cherished childhood paradises via the clipped lawns of Cambridge to country retreats in Sussex Jane Brown describes the symbolic importance of the English landscape when it blends with the creative imagination The Victorians

John Gardiner, 2006-10-27 A major study of changing attitudes to the Victorians from Lytton Strachey to the present day

Women, Literature, and the Arts of the Countryside in Early Twentieth-Century England Judith W. Page, Elise L. Smith, 2021-03-25 This book examines the centrality of the countryside to women's work creativity and aspirations in early twentieth century England The Village That Died for England Patrick Wright, 2021-09-14 A reissue of Patrick Wright's 1995 classic about the military takeover of the village of Tyneham with a new introduction taking in Brexit and a new wave of British nationalism Shortly before Christmas in 1943 the British military announced they were taking over a remote valley on the Dorset coast and turning it into a firing range for tanks in preparation for D Day The residents of the village of Tyneham loyally packed up their things and fled out of their homes into temporary accommodation yet Tyneham refused to die Although it was never returned to its pre war occupants and owners Tyneham would persist through a long and extraordinary afterlife in the English imagination It was said that Churchill himself had promised that the villagers would be able to return once the war was over and that the post war Labour government was responsible for the betrayal of that pledge Both the accusation and the sense of grievance would reverberate through many decades after that Back in print and with a brand new introduction this book explores how Tyneham came to be converted into a symbol of posthumous England a patriotic community betrayed by the alleged humiliations of post war national history Both celebrated and reviled at the time of its first publication in 1995 The Village that Died for England is indispensable reading for anyone trying to understand where Brexit came from and where it might be leading us Spirits of Place Jane Brown, 2001 In considering these personal landscapes Jane Brown brings alive the places of their affections For E M Forster this was epitomized by his home Rooksnest which became the model for his famous Howards End Rupert Brooke son of a Rugby schoolmaster was a product of the clipped quadrangles of Cambridge and immortalized the meadows at Grantchester L P Hartley's holidays in Norfolk coloured his novels though he rejected his native Fens Virginia Woolf found inspiration in her memories from childhood reinventing the magic of the Cornish coast in her novels while living on the rolling green hills of the Sussex Downs BOOK JACKET

Jane Austen's Textual Lives Kathryn Sutherland, 2005-10-06 Through three intertwined histories Jane Austen's Textual Lives offers a new way of approaching and reading a very familiar author. One is a history of the transmission and transformation of Jane Austen through manuscripts, critical editions, biographies, and adaptations; a second provides a conspectus of the development of English Studies as a discipline in which the original and primary place of textual criticism is recovered; and a third reviews the role of Oxford University Press in shaping a canon of English texts in the twentieth century. Jane Austen can be discovered in all three. Since her rise to celebrity status at the end of the nineteenth century, Jane Austen has occupied a position within English-speaking culture that is both popular and canonical, accessible and complexly inaccessible, fixed and certain yet wonderfully amenable to shifts of sensibility and cultural assumptions. The implied contradiction was represented in the early twentieth century by, on the one hand, the Austen family's continued management, censorship, and sentimental marketing of the sweet lady novelist of the Hampshire countryside; and on the other, by R. W. Chapman's 1923 Clarendon Press edition of the Novels of Jane Austen, which subjected her texts to the kind of scholarly probing reserved till then for classical Greek and Roman authors, obscured by centuries of attrition. It was to be almost fifty years before the Clarendon Press considered it necessary to recalibrate the reputation of another popular English novelist in this way. Beginning with specific encounters with three kinds of textual work and the problems, clues, or challenges to interpretation they continue to present, Kathryn Sutherland goes on to consider the absence of a satisfactory critical theory of biography that can help us address the partial life and ends with a discussion of the screen adaptations through which the texts continue to live on. Throughout, Jane Austen's textual identities provide a means to explore the wider issue of what text is and to argue the importance of understanding textual space as itself a powerful agent, established only by recourse to further interpretations and fictions.

In the Hollow of the Wave Bonnie Kime Scott, 2012 Examining the writings and life of Virginia Woolf, In the Hollow of the Wave looks at how Woolf treated nature as a deliberate discourse that shaped her way of thinking about the self and the environment and her strategies for challenging the imbalances of power in her own culture, all of which remain valuable in the framing of our discourse about nature today. Bonnie Kime Scott explores Woolf's uses of nature, including her satire of scientific professionals and amateurs, her parodies of the imperial conquest of land, her representations of flora and fauna, her application of post-impressionist and modernist modes, her merging of characters with the environment, and her ventures across the species barrier. In shedding light on this discourse of Woolf and the natural world, Scott brings to our attention a critical, neglected, and contested aspect of modernism itself. She relies on feminist, ecofeminist, and postcolonial theory in the process, drawing also on the relatively recent field of animal studies. By focusing on multiple registers of Woolf's uses of nature, the author paves the way for more extended research in modernist practices, natural history, garden and landscape studies, and lesbian/queer studies.

Competing Jurisdictions Sandra Evers, Marja Spierenburg, Harry Wels, 2005 Includes bibliographical references.

'Disciples of Flora' Victoria Emma Pagán, Judith W.

Page, Brigitte Weltman-Aron, 2015-09-04 Disciples of Flora explores through a variety of approaches disciplines and historical periods the place and vitality of gardens as cultural objects repositories of meaning and sites for the construction of identity and subjectivity gardens being an eminent locus where culture and nature meet This collection of essays contributes to a revision of histories of gardens by broadening the scope of scholarly inquiry to include a long history from ancient Rome to the present in which contesting memories delineate new apprehensions of topography and space The contributors draw attention to alternative landscapes or gardening practices while recalling the ways in which spaces have been invested with an affective dimension that has itself been historicized

Edward Elgar Christopher Grogan, 2020-12-02 The first full length study of the English composer s complex interaction with his physical environment and its new relevance in the 21st century More perhaps than any other composer Edward Elgar 1857 1934 has gained the status of an icon of locality his music seemingly inextricably linked to the English landscape in which he worked This the first full length study of Elgar s complex interaction with his physical environment explores how it is that such associations are formed and whether it is in any sense true that Elgar alchemized landscape into music It argues that Elgar stands at the apex of an English tradition going back to Blake in which creative artists in all media have identified and warned against the self harm of environmental degradation and that following a period in which these ideas were swept away by the swift but shallow tide of Modernism in the decades after the First World War they have since resurfaced with a new relevance and urgency for twenty first century society Written with the non specialist in mind yet drawing on the rich resources of post millennial scholarship on Elgar as well as geographical studies of place the book also includes many new insights relating to such aspects of Elgar s output as his use of landscape typology in The Apostles and his encounter with Modernism in the late chamber music It also calls on the resources of contemporary social commentary poetry and especially English landscape art to place Elgar and his thought in the broader cultural milieu of his time A survey of recent recordings is included in the hope that listeners both familiar and unfamiliar with Elgar s music will feel inspired to embark on a voyage of re discovery of its endlessly rewarding treasures

Strength beyond Structure Mirjam de Bruijn, Jan-Bart Gewald, Rijk van Dijk, 2007-07-31 This book explores the notion of agency in a range of empirical situations in Africa Agency directs our quest for an understanding of the dynamics and social transformations of African situations to the domains of creativity inventiveness and reflexivity It emphasizes the possibilities individuals and social groups perceive when faced with the constraints that tend to mark African social life The case studies provide an alternative view of people and society in Africa by looking at the ways social strength is created in the hope of overcoming many of the structural limitations encountered in daily life Strength beyond Structure challenges the optimism that is engrained in the development rhetoric about Africa by making agency the subject of empirical scrutiny

Tasting Tourism: Travelling for Food and Drink Priscilla Boniface, 2017-03-02 Along with basic practical reasons our practices concerning food and drink are driven by context and environment belief and convention aspiration and desire to display in short by culture Similarly culture guides how tourism is used and operates This book examines food and drink tourism as it is now and is likely to develop through a cultural lens It asks what is food and drink tourism and why have food and drink provisions and information points become tourist destinations in their own right rather than remaining among a number of tourism features and components While it offers a range of international examples the main focus is on food and drink tourism in the UK What with the current diversification of tourism in rural areas the increased popularity of this type of tourism in the UK the series of BSE vCJD and foot and mouth crises in British food production and the cultural and ethnic fusion in British towns and cities it makes a particularly rich place in which to explore this subject The author concludes that the future of food and drink tourism lies in diversity and distinctiveness In an era of globalisation there is a particular desire to enjoy varied rather than mono cultural ambiance and experience She also notes that there is an immediacy of gratification in food and drink consumption which has become a general requirement of contemporary society
