

Spiritual Psychology combines the spiritual and transcendent features that influence the human experience beyond the body, mind, and emotions hence making it more accessible and acceptable by people. It is also called transpersonal psychology.

Conventional Psychology

It focuses on three areas – physical, mental and emotional.

It is based on the concept of impermanence & helps you cope with the constant changes like what you do, what you think and what you feel.

VS

Spiritual Psychology

It focuses on four areas – physical, mental, emotional and core being or inner self.

It can help you experience peace, joy, unconditional love & to live your life in harmony both inside and out by accessing your inner self or your core.
