The Balkans and the West Andrew Hammond, 2017-03-02 This collection of essays locates, investigates and challenges the manner in which the Balkans and the West have constructed each other since 1945. Scholars from the two sections of the continent explore a wide range of fiction, film, journalism, travel writing and diplomatic records both to analyse Western European balkanism and to study Balkan representations of the West over the last fifty years. The first section looks back to the Cold War, examining the divergent, often favourable images of the Balkans that existed in Western culture as well as the variety of responses that appeared in South East European writings on the West. The second section analyses the transitions that took place in representation during the 1990s. Here contributors explore both the harsh denigration of the Balkans which came to dominate western discourse after the initial euphoria of 1989 and the emerging tradition of contesting Western balkanism in South East European cultural production. Through this dual emphasis, the volume exposes the representational practices that help to maintain a deeply divided Europe and challenges the economic and political injustices that result. Despite the rise to prominence of postcolonial theory with its awareness of global inequality, the current crises in many parts of South East Europe have received scant attention in literary and cultural studies. The Balkans and the West addresses this deficiency. Ranging in focus from Serbian cinema to Romanian travel literature, from Western economic writings to Yugoslav fiction and from public discourse in Albania to NATO's vast propaganda machine, the essays offer wide insight into representation and power in the contemporary European context.

Olivia Manning Deirdre David, 2013-01-10 Olivia Manning's A Woman at War is the first literary biography of the twentieth-century novelist Olivia Manning. It tells the story of a writer whose life and work were shaped by her own fierce ambition and, like many of her generation, the events and aftermath of the Second World War. From the time she left Portsmouth for London in the mid 1930s, determined to become a famous writer, through her wartime years in the Balkans and the Middle East and until her death in London in 1980, Olivia Manning was a dedicated and hard-working author. Married to a British Council lecturer stationed in Bucharest, Olivia Manning arrived in Romania on the 3rd September 1939, the fateful day when Allied forces declared war on Germany. For the duration of World War Two, she kept one step ahead of invading German forces as she and her husband fled Romania for Greece and then Greece for the Middle East, where they stayed until the end of the war. These tumultuous wartime years are the subject of her best-known and most transparently autobiographical novels, The Balkan Trilogy and The Levant Trilogy. Olivia Manning refused to be labelled a feminist, but her novels depict with cutting insight and sardonic wit the marginal position of women striving for independent identity in arenas frequently controlled by men, whether on the frontlines of war or in the publishing world of the 1950s. However, she did not just write about World War Two and women's lives. Amongst other things, Manning published fiction about making do in Britain's post-war Age of Austerity, about desecration of the environment through uncontrolled development and about the painful adjustment to post war British life for young men As the author of thirteen published novels two volumes of short stories several works of non fiction and a regular reviewer of contemporary fiction she was a visible presence on the British literary scene throughout her life and her work provides a detailed insight into the period Grounded in thorough research and enriched by discussion of previously unexamined manuscripts and letters Olivia Manning A Woman at War is a timely study of Olivia Manning s remarkable life Deirdre David integrates incisive critical analysis of Manning s writing with extensive discussion of the historical contexts of her fiction

History of the Literary Cultures of East-Central Europe Marcel Cornis-Pope,John Neubauer,2010-09-29 Types and stereotypes is the fourth and last volume of a path breaking multinational literary history that incorporates innovative features relevant to the writing of literary history in general Instead of offering a traditional chronological narrative of the period 1800 1989 the History of the Literary Cultures of East Central Europe approaches the region's literatures from five complementary angles focusing on literature's participation in and reaction to key political events literary periods and genres the literatures of cities and sub regions literary institutions and figures of representation The main objective of the project is to challenge the self enclosure of national literatures in traditional literary histories to contextualize them in a regional perspective and to recover individual works writers and minority literatures that national histories have marginalized or ignored Types and stereotypes brings together articles that rethink the figures of National Poets figurations of the Family Women Outlaws and Others as well as figures of Trauma and Mediation As in the previous three volumes the historical and imaginary figures discussed here constantly change and readjust to new political and social conditions An Epilogue complements the basic history focusing on the contradictory transformations of East Central European literary cultures after 1989 This volume will be of interest to the region's literary historians to students and teachers of comparative literature to cultural historians and to the general public interested in exploring the literatures of a rich and resourceful cultural region
