The Maestro Myth Great Conductors In Pursuit Of Power:

The Maestro Myth Norman Lebrecht, 2001 Nearly ten years after its original publication The Maestro Myth continues to enthrall readers with its insightful look into the lives and careers of the world's most celebrated conductors. Now updated and including two new chapters, this volume portrays the politics and inflated economics surrounding the podiums of today's international classical music scene and the obstacles faced by blacks, women, and gays. From Richard Strauss to Herbert von Karajan to Leonard Bernstein to Simon Rattle, The Maestro Myth examines the world of classical music and the mounting crisis in a profession where genuine talent grows ever scarcer. It is a must-have resource for music aficionados as well as anyone interested in the behind-the-scenes lives of these music masters. Book jacket The Maestro Myth Norman Lebrecht, 1992-01 This book debunks today's largely uncritical view of the conductor's role, taking to task the overpaid, overpraised, and self-inflated men and women who have mounted the conductor's podium since the turn of the century. Few top conductors escape unscathed. Lebrecht is tireless in his exposure of Machiavellian shenanigans, professional rivalry, personal intrigue, and the increasing marketing pressures exacerbated by the vast sums now offered for top recording and performing contracts.

The Orchestra: A Very Short Introduction D. Kern Holoman, 2012-08-13 In this Very Short Introduction, D. Kern Holoman considers the structure, roots, and day-to-day functioning of the modern philharmonic society. He explores topics ranging from the life of a musician in a modern orchestra to the recent wave of new hall construction from Berlin to Birmingham, threats of bankruptcies and strikes, and the eyebrow-raising salaries of conductors and general managers. At the heart of the book lies a troubling pair of questions: Can such a seemingly anachronistic organization long survive? Does the symphony matter in contemporary culture? Holoman responds to both with a resounding yes. He shows that the orchestra remains a potent political and social force, a cultural diplomat par excellence. It has adapted well to the digital revolution and it continues to be seen as an essential element of civic pride. In a time of upheaval in how classical music is created, heard, distributed, and evaluated, the orchestra has managed to retain its historic role as a meeting place of intellectual currents, an ongoing forum for public enlightenment.

Debussy Simon Trezise, 1994 La mer stands at the centre of Debussy's achievement, described by the composer as a seascape without figures. It is arguably the greatest and most original French symphony. In this study, La mer is considered in the context of Debussy's personal and musical development and in the French musical renaissance in general, looking back to César Franck and forward to the orchestral Images and Jeux. The author uses new biographical information and a wide range of sources to reveal the period of La mer's composition as one of intense emotional turbulence. Detailed discussion of performance styles draws on current recordings, and two analytical chapters trace the growth of ideas through the work. Studies of rhythm, motif, and tonality show how Debussy generates narratives across the three movements, which give La mer a structural integrity unparalleled in French music at the turn of the century.

Leonard Bernstein Paul Laird, 2013-10-11 Beginning with an introductory essay on his achievements, it continues with annotations on Bernstein's voluminous writings, performances, educational work and major secondary sources Musicking

 Christopher Small, 2012-01-01 Extending the inquiry of his early groundbreaking books, Christopher Small strikes at the heart of traditional studies of Western music by asserting that music is not a thing but rather an activity. In this new book, Small outlines a theory of what he terms 'musicking', a verb that encompasses all musical activity from composing to performing to listening to a Walkman to singing in the shower. Using Gregory Bateson's philosophy of mind and a Geertzian thick description of a typical concert in a typical symphony hall, Small demonstrates how musicking forms a ritual through which all the participants explore and celebrate the relationships that constitute their social identity. This engaging and deftly written trip through the concert hall will have readers rethinking every aspect of their musical worlds Aesthetics and Experience in Music Performance
 Denis Collins, Klisala Harrison, Samantha Owens, 2008-12-11 Drawing upon a wide range of scholarly enquiry into early music, queer musicology, ethnomusicology, performance practice, music education and technology, Aesthetics and Experience in Music Performance provides a lively forum for the articulation of varied perspectives on the role of music, its interpretation and function in contexts supported by those who practice or experience it. The formal and shorter discussion papers included in this scholarly collection were presented at the National Workshop of the Musicological Society of Australia held at the University of Queensland, Brisbane, in October 2003. The themes of aesthetics and experience are central to this publication, and each paper engages in a scholarly dialogue on the technical, expressive and embodied aspects of performance. The papers included in this publication bring together the research of a wide community of scholars, e.g. musicologists, anthropologists, ethnomusicologists and linguists working in the field of performance studies, and collectively reflect the musicological issues being debated in Australia today Personhood and Music Learning
 Susan A. O'Neill, 2012-11-01 Personhood and Music Learning, edited by Susan O'Neill, is a scholarly but accessible exploration of personal action and experience across diverse music learning contexts. It offers interesting and challenging insights into persons making meaning and connections with music, critical for understanding choices and decisions that impact people's lives. Perspectives and narratives by 25 authors from around the world focus on musicians, composers and conductors, music teaching and learning with children and adolescents, music education research and professional practice. This book aims to recast theories of personhood in relation to music learning, reassert the person into multiple narratives and restore the centrality of personhood to music education theory, research and practice. Students and researchers internationally, as well as music educators in all areas of professional practice, will find in these pages thought-provoking ideas with profound implications for envisioning the future of music education Choral Conducting and the Construction of Meaning Liz Garnett, 2017-07-05 It is a truism in teaching choral conducting that the director should look like s/he wishes the choir to sound. The conductor's physical demeanour has a direct effect on how the choir sings at a level that is largely unconscious and involuntary. It is also a matter of simple observation that different choral traditions exhibit not only different styles of vocal production and delivery but also different gestural vocabularies which are shared not only between conductors within that tradition but also with the singers. It is as possible to distinguish a gospel choir from a barbershop chorus or a cathedral choir by visual cues alone as it is simply by listening. But how can these forms of physical communication be explained? Do they belong to a pre-cultural realm of primate social bonding or do they rely on the context and conventions of a particular choral culture? Is body language an inherent part of musical performance styles or does it come afterwards in response to music? At a practical level to what extent can a practitioner from one tradition mandate an approach as good practice and to what extent can another refuse it on the grounds that we don't do it that way? This book explores these questions at both theoretical and practical levels. It examines textual and ethnographic sources and draws on theories from critical musicology and nonverbal communication studies to analyse them. By comparing a variety of choral traditions it investigates the extent to which the connections between conductor demeanour and choral sound operate at a general level and in what ways they are constructed within a specific idiom. Its findings will be of interest both to those engaged in the study of music as a cultural practice and to practitioners involved in a choral conducting context that increasingly demands fluency in a variety of styles.

Double Lives: Film Composers in the Concert Hall James Wierzbicki, 2019-02-08. Double Lives: Film Composers in the Concert Hall is a collection of fifteen essays dealing with iconic film composers who perhaps to the surprise of many fans of film music nevertheless maintained lifelong careers as composers for the concert hall. Featured composers include Erich Wolfgang Korngold, Franz Waxman, Miklós Rózsa, Bernard Herrmann, Nino Rota, Leonard Rosenman and Ennio Morricone. Progressing in chronological order, the chapters offer accounts of the various composers' concert hall careers and descriptions of their concert hall styles. Each chapter compares the composer's music for films with his or her music for the concert hall and speculates as to how music in one arena might have affected music in the other. For each composer discussed in the book, complete filmographies and complete works lists are included as appendices. Double Lives: Film Composers in the Concert Hall is accessible for scholars, researchers and general readers with an interest in film music and concert music.
