The Making Of Memory:

The Making Of Memory Steven Rose, 2012-09-30 Steven Rose's The Making of Memory is about just that in both its senses the biological processes by which we humans and other animals learn and remember and how researchers can explore these mechanisms But it is also about much more When the first edition of this fascinating book won the Science book Prize in 1993 the judges described it as a riveting read a first hand account by a practicing scientist working at the forefront of medical research and Rose does not duck the issues which that raises Now ten years on research has itself moved forward and Rose has taken the opportunity to fully revise the book But this is more than mere revision Where ten years ago he argued the case for research on memory because it is the most extraordinary of human attributes Rose's own research has now opened the doors to a potential new treatment for Alzheimer's Disease undreamed of a decade ago and in an entirely new chapter he describes how this potential breakthrough has occurred

The Making of Memory Steven Peter Russell Rose, 1992 The recipes included in this book range from family dinners centred around pot roast pheasant with grilled polenta or red mullet with rosemary to lavish buffets and menus for special occasions like oysters and passion fruit fool on St Valentine's Day By the author of Portrait of Pasta

Reading War, Making Memory Tea Sindbæk Andersen, Jessica Ortner, Fedja Wierød Borčak, 2025-11-01 In the fields of literary and memory studies the cultural impact of the Bosnian War of 1992-1995 appears despite the scale of devastation somewhat minimal Reading War Making Memory focuses on how authors from the diaspora of the former Yugoslavia have transmitted and translated the realities of the war in their fiction illuminating how these texts interpolate the culture and memory of Bosnia Herzegovina into an act of mnemonic migration Drawing from close readings studies of public reception and focus group interviews this volume explores the attempt to reshape social frameworks of memory and the wider reception and impact of memory making literature across Europe

Making Memory Matter Lisa Saltzman, 2006-10-02 In an ancient account of painting's origins a woman traces the shadow of her departing lover on the wall in an act that anticipates future grief and commemoration Lisa Saltzman shows here that nearly two thousand years after this story was first told contemporary artists are returning to similar strategies of remembrance ranging from vaudevillian silhouettes and sepulchral casts to incinerated architectures and ghostly processions Exploring these artists work Saltzman demonstrates that their methods have now eclipsed painting and traditional sculpture as preeminent forms of visual representation She pays particular attention to the groundbreaking art of Krzysztof Wodiczko who is known for his projections of historical subjects Kara Walker who creates powerful silhouetted images of racial violence in American history and Rachel Whiteread whose work centers on making casts of empty interior spaces Each of the artists Saltzman discusses is struggling with the roles that history and memory have come to play in an age when any historical statement is subject to question and doubt In identifying this new and powerful movement she provides a framework for understanding the art of our time

Making Memory Alana

M Vincent, 2014-11-27 The twentieth century has been called a century of horror Proof of that designation can be found in the vast and ever increasing volume of scholarly work on violence trauma memory and history across diverse academic disciplines This book demonstrates not only the ways in which the wars of the twentieth century have altered theological engagement and religious practice but also the degree to which religious ways of thinking have shaped the way we construct historical narratives Drawing on diverse sources from the Hebrew Bible to Commonwealth war graves from Greek tragedy to post Holocaust theology Alana M Vincent probes the intersections between past and present memory and identity religion and nationality The result is a book that defies categorization and offers no easy answers but instead pursues an agenda of theological realism holding out continued hope for the restoration of the world

Commemorating and Forgetting Martin J. Murray, 2013-04-25 When the past is painful as riddled with violence and injustice as it is in postapartheid South Africa remembrance presents a problem at once practical and ethical how much of the past to preserve and recollect and how much to erase and forget if the new nation is to ever unify and move forward The new South Africa's confrontation of this dilemma is Martin J Murray's subject in Commemorating and Forgetting More broadly this book explores how collective memory works how framing events persons and places worthy of recognition and honor entails a selective appropriation of the past not a mastery of history How is the historical past made to appear in the present In addressing these questions Murray reveals how collective memory is stored and disseminated in architecture statuary monuments and memorials literature and art landscapes of remembrance that selectively recall and even fabricate history in the service of nation building He examines such vehicles of memory in postapartheid South Africa and parses the stories they tell stories by turn sanitized distorted embellished and compressed In this analysis Commemorating and Forgetting marks a critical move toward recognizing how the legacies and impositions of white minority rule far from being truly past remain embedded in intertwined with and imprinted on the new nation's here and now
