Too Far Gone (The Jaxon Grey Chronicles, #3) - Hardcover J. Wright, The Novel Tim Parks,2015-07-16 The Literary Agenda is a series of short polemical monographs about the importance of literature and of reading in the wider world and about the state of literary education inside schools and universities The category of the literary has always been contentious What is clear however is how increasingly it is dismissed or is unrecognised as a way of thinking or an arena for thought It is sceptically challenged from within for example by the sometimes rival claims of cultural history contextualized explanation or media studies It is shaken from without by even greater pressures by economic exigency and the severe social attitudes that can follow from it by technological change that may leave the traditional forms of serious human communication looking merely antiquated For just these reasons this is the right time for renewal to start reinvigorated work into the meaning and value of literary reading The Novel A Survival Skill is the fruit of a lifetime's search for a different more immediate but again systematic and serious way of talking about literature Developed over many years it offers a completely new account of the relationship between a writer his or her work and the reader As such it radically undermines traditional literary criticism and the various criteria used for evaluating a work of fiction Drawing on ideas from systemic psychology Tim Parks suggest that both the content and style of a novelist's work the kind of stories told and the way in which they are told form part of a more general strategy or simply habit of communication that the novelist has learned within his or her family of origin The reader reacts to these in very much the same way he or she would react to the same communicative strategy in a real life encounter different readers reacting differently depending on their own backgrounds and habits of communication Looking at the different value structures that can dominate in any family good evil independence dependence success failure belonging exclusion this book looks at how a number of major writers position themselves within these value structures how this positioning is manifest in their writing and how readers have responded to this depending on their own positioning in the same semantics Thomas Hardy for example a man eager to believe himself courageous but terrified of the consequences of any socially unacceptable behaviour constructs stories which are courageous in their willingness to debate difficult issues but which constantly suggest that any attempt to behave courageously is condemned to disaster Hardy as it were imprisons himself in a world where it is folly to take risks He is thus exceedingly conservative in his life while at the same time able to think of himself as courageous in his writing The Novel A Survival Skill looks at the way different readers in different periods respond to this depending on their own position with regard to fear courage social convention and so on

Stranger Than Fiction Edwin Frank, 2024-11-19. One of the Washington Post's 50 Best Nonfiction Books of 2024. A New York Times Book Review Editors' Choice. Ambitious, intelligent, and happily unpretentious. Louis Menand, The New Yorker. Convincing, idiosyncratic, and often felicitous. Alexandra Jacobs, The New York Times Book Review. A legendary editor's reckoning with the twentieth-century novel and the urgent messages it sends. How can we live differently? a young woman urgently demands in Virginia Woolf's novel The Waves. It is the 1930s; war and death are in the air, but her question was asked again and again in the course of a century where things changed fast and changed all the time. The century brought world wars, revolutions, automobiles, movies, and the internet; votes for women, death camps. The century brought questions. Novelists in the twentieth century had a question of their own: how can we write a novel as startling and unforeseen as the world we live in? Again and again they did, transforming the novel as the century remade the world. Imagine the history of the twentieth-century novel recounted with the urgency and intimacy of a novel. That's what Edwin Frank, the legendary editor who has run the New York Review Books publishing imprint since its inception, does in Stranger than Fiction. With penetrating insight and originality, Frank introduces us to books, some famous, some little known, from the whole course of the century and from around the world. Starting with Dostoevsky's Notes from Underground of 1864, Frank shows how its twitchy, self-undermining and never-satisfied narrator established a voice that would echo through the coming century. He illuminates the political vision of H.G. Wells's science fiction, Colette and André Gide's subversions of traditional gender roles, and Gertrude Stein's untethering of the American sentence. He describes the monumental ambition of books such as Mrs. Dalloway, The Magic Mountain, and The Man Without Qualities to rebuild a world of human possibility upon the ruins of World War I, and explores how Japan's Natsume Soseki and Nigeria's Chinua Achebe broke open European models to reflect their own distinct histories and experience. Here too are Vasily Grossman, Anna Banti, and Elsa Morante reckoning in specific ways with the traumas of World War II, while later chapters range from Marguerite Yourcenar and V.S. Naipaul to Gabriel García Márquez and W.G. Sebald. The story as a whole is one of fearless, often reckless exploration as well as unfathomable desolation. Throughout we discover the power of the novel to reinvent itself to find a way for itself to live differently Stranger than Fiction offers a new vision of the history and art of the novel and of a dark and dazzling time in whose light and shadow we still stand
