Soviet Policy In Africa:

Soviet Policy in West Africa Robert Legvold, 1970 This is a study of Soviet policy in six West African countries Ghana Guinea the Ivory Coast Mali Nigeria and Senegal Robert Legvold analyzes the awakening of Soviet Interest in sub Saharan Africa and the growth problems and influences of the Soviet involvement from Ghana s independence in 1957 to 1968 Those nations are significant not only because they were the first African colonies to achieve independence and therefore have had the longest involvement with the Soviet Union but also because together they supply illustrations of every problem that Black Africa poses for an outside nation s foreign policy from hypersensitive nationalism to what has been called neo colonial dependence from relative long term stability to fundamental instability from military coups d tat to civil war From the Soviet viewpoint the six countries range from the most progressive to the most reactionary Each has had an interesting relationship with the Soviet Union The author considers several basic questions How has the Soviet Union coped with the problems and opportunities created by Black Africa How have its perceptions of Black Africa evolved during the first decade of its involvement there Has policy shifted correspondingly with changes In these perceptions Mr Legvold explains why Black Africa lay largely ignored for years while Soviet leaders turned their attention to struggle and revolution in the Far East and South Asia He has examined the Soviet and African press to trace the full evolution of Soviet attitudes and action in these countries and has interviewed Soviet African and other officials He compares Soviet policy as between one African nation and another as well as between Africa and other continents

Soviet Policy in Africa George W. Breslauer, 1992 Soviet Policy in Africa O. Igbo Natufe, 2011-11-08 Written by Soviet politics and international relations specialist Igbo Natufe Soviet Policy in Africa offers a critical analysis of Soviet and Western foreign policies that presents a balanced perspective on the understanding and evolution of Soviet ideology and politics Using on extensive research Natufe traces the evolution of Soviet foreign policy from 1917 through 1980 focusing on the ideological constructs of Vladimir Lenin the founder of the Soviet state through the contending interpretations of Joseph Stalin and finally to Nikita Khrushchev and Leonid Brezhnev He reveals how the Soviets continually used the tenets of Marxism Leninism for global issues even though their interpretations sometimes varied between individual leaders Natufe also shows how the Soviet government viewed post 1945 Europe as favorable to revolutionary tendencies particularly in the colonies Africa became a battleground between Eastern and Western ideologies and Soviet policies posed opportunities and threats to the continents independence movements In addition Natufe discusses China and the West as well as presenting case studies of Soviet foreign policy Scholars and students of international politics will find Soviet Policy in Africa a well researched thorough study of this often overlooked subject

Soviet Policy in West Africa, 1957-64 Alessandro Iandolo, 2011 Between 1957 and 1964 the Soviet Union sought to export to West Africa a model of socialist economic and social development Moscow s policy was driven by the conviction that socialism was a superior economic system and could be replicated in Ghana Guinea and Mali However Soviet confidence in the project was undermined by the unreliability of local leaders and then by the Congo crisis The setback in West Africa taught the Soviet leadership crucial lessons including the importance of supporting ideologically reliable leaders and the necessity of building military strength to bolster intervention Combining Soviet and Ghanaian sources with those more readily available in the UK and the US this thesis shows the importance of modernisation of the Third World for Moscow's foreign policy during the Khrushchev era and contributes to the new sets of literature on the cold war in the third world and on the Soviet Union's foreign policy v

The Soviet Union and the Horn of Africa during the Cold War Radoslav A. Yordanov,2016-03-17 At the height of the Cold War Soviet ideologues policymakers diplomats and military officers perceived the countries of Africa Asia and Latin America as the future reserve of socialism holding the key to victory over Western forces The zero sum nature of East West global competition induced the United States to try to thwart Soviet ambitions The result was predictable the two superpowers engaged in proxy struggles against each other in faraway little understood lands often ending up entangled in protracted and highly destructive local fights that did little to serve their own agendas Using a wealth of recently declassified sources this book tells the complex story of Soviet involvement in the Horn of Africa a narrowly defined geographic entity torn by the rivalry of two large countries Ethiopia and Somalia from the beginning of the Cold War until the demise of the Soviet Union At different points in the twentieth century this region arguably one of the poorest in the world attracted broad international interest and large quantities of advanced weaponry making it a Cold War flashpoint The external actors ultimately failed to achieve what they wanted from the local conflicts a lesson relevant for U S policymakers today as they ponder whether to use force abroad in the wake of the unhappy experiences in Iraq and Afghanistan

Soviet Foreign Policy in Southern Africa Peter Vanneman,W. Martin James,1982 Marxism's Retreat from Africa Arnold Hughes,2015-04-24 The collapse of Marxism in much of the Third World as well as Europe was so sudden and spectacular that it is hard to believe that in the space of seven years The Journal of Communist Studies could bring out special issues both on the creation of Military Marxist Regimes in Africa and on their demise and the wider collapse of Marxist governments on the continent This volume first published in 1992 derives from a roundtable on the theme of The Retreat from Moscow African and Eastern European Experiences of Disengagement from Marxism held at the University of Birmingham in September 1991 The conference examined the recent experiences of African countries in transition from Marxism and Marxist influenced ideologies to an uncertain future based on the market economy and a plural political system
