

A line that the man's wife is the most famous tattoo design in the world. The man is the artist, and the woman is the model. The man is the artist, and the woman is the model. The man is the artist, and the woman is the model.

At this level, tattooing is just another one of the ways in which we have traditionally had the purpose of making ourselves more desirable and so much is not any different than perfume, makeup and clothing, except that tattooing does not wear off or—if it is a real work of art—changes style. Getting a tattoo simply to offer a more permanent and lasting surface to the world is now being accepted on a very wide scale and represents a major shift in the cultural consciousness.

The second category of exotic tattooing is a lot more hard-core. This usually refers to explicit erotic images of placement on one of the sex organs, buttocks, thighs or buttocks. Both men and women who are not too shy to go to the heart of the issue belong to the practice.

It is here that the average citizen usually draws the line and begins making harsh, unnecessary judgments about what is normal and what is "lewd." But the real, unadmitted prejudice linked with sex. A person who doesn't want such a tattoo doesn't have to get one, but that shouldn't prevent being open enough to recognize it in someone else.

There too there is a wide range of indulgence. The women who get an erotic tattoo usually tend to get a small design on one of the breasts or buttocks or thigh. But there are also quite a few who have the nipples and vaginal lips tattooed. One woman had her breasts totally covered with snakes, that creature being phallic symbol par excellence. Another had a very large rose placed on the skin over her clitoris.

Men can be equally imaginative. One man had a vagina tattooed on his belly to make a statement about his sexuality. Another had his wife's name placed on his penis, the strip of flesh between anus and scrotum. For men who really want to extend their love, the penis and scrotum are the obvious places for a tattoo. The designs can be as varied as the human mind or make them. One man had the hair of a dachshund on his belly and his penis made into a forked tongue. The work required a great deal of planning and measurement because he wanted the dachshund's head to be looking into the eyes of anyone performing below at him and glancing up while keeping the mouth around the phallus. And another had his penis tattooed as a whip handle with the lashes going up through his pubic hair and swirling up over his belly and chest.
