Tymieniecka, 2013-04-17 Self individualization has been interpreted as the process in which the all embracing Self unfolds into an infinite variety of different individuals plants animals and men A comparison of the different ways in which the Self manifests itself in the biological and psychological developmental processes or in a visionary image of the undivided Self reveals the same basic structure of expression. The Self, the one, is represented by a circular domain and comprises a basic inner duality, the two creating a paradox of conflicting opposites. In the undivided Self, the two give rise to a trinity in which, however, a quaternity is hidden. The latter expresses itself in this world as the four basic forces, the four Elements or the four main archetypes specifying the possibilities of development in space and time. Self-individualization starts with the first appearance of a primary structure of an individual, sub-Self. This is the fifth basic force, the fifth Element. Further development is characterized by four generative principles: 1st the principle of wholeness, connection and integration being oriented to remaining whole or restoring wholeness; 2nd the principle of complementarity and compensation, a periodic shift between opposing influences; 3rd the enstructuring principle causing the relative stability of the spatial appearance of the manifest structure; and 4th the principle of gesture resulting in a gradual stepwise development of that structure into a full-grown individual.
