Lawrence,2013-10-24 The senses are used within New Testament texts as instruments of knowledge and power and thus constitute important mediators of cultural knowledge and experience Likewise those instances where sensory faculty is perceived to be disabled in some way also become key sites for ideological commentary and critique However often biblical scholarship itself disabled by eye centric and textocentric norms has read sensory disabled characters as nothing more than inert sites of healing their agency including their alternative sensory modes of communication and resistance to oppression remain largely unaddressed In response Louise J Lawrence seeks to initiate a variety of interdisciplinary dialogues with disability studies and sensory anthropology in a quest to refigure characters with sensory disabilities featured in the gospels and provide alternative interpretations of their conditions and social interactions In each instance the identity of those stigmatised as other according to particular physiological social and cultural norms are recovered by exploring ethnographic accounts which document the stories of those experiencing similar rejection on account of perceived sensory difference in diverse cross cultural settings Through this process these disabled characters are recast as individuals capable of employing certain strategies which destabilize the stigma imposed upon them and tactical performers who can subversively achieve their social goals

Welcoming Children Joyce Ann Mercer, 2005-11-01 This book develops a theology of childhood both from a theoretical basis in biblical theology especially the gospel of Mark and practical experience in children and youth ministry Mercer builds on classical theologians such as Augustine Calvin Barth and Rahner as well as modern feminist theologians such as Brock and Russell She gains insights from pastoral theologians such as Capps and Couture and from contemporary cultural criticism Mercer challenges approaches to educational and liturgical practices with children in congregations that segregate children from the rest of the church and its key practices of service mission worship care and learning She reframes ministries with children as processes through which the church as a community of practice forms children into an alternative identity that resists surrounding consumerist culture and walks in the ways of Jesus This book offers strategies for educational practices with children in congregations as it seeks to address the question What might educational practices that welcome children and contribute to their flourishing look like in the context of a faith community where children s learning happens in collaboration with experienced practitioners of faith Outlining a feminist practical theology of childhood it explores five basic theological claims 1 children as gifts and parenting as a religious practice of stewardship 2 welcoming those who welcome and care for children 3 children as already fully human 4 children as part of the purposes of God and 5 acknowledging and transforming the sufferings of children

Philosophers of religion have focused almost exclusively on the existence and nature of God and the nature and destiny of human beings But these philosophers have been remiss in engaging discussions about the possibility of there being adverse gods of this world demonic beings despite being a doctrine that comprises a significant part of the Christian confession This drought in the literature has left a number of questions unaddressed including Hasn t science buried the demonic Are there any successful philosophical arguments for the existence of Satan What kind of being is Satan Is he the fallen angel of lore Is it reasonable for Christians to say that demons are purely immaterial spirits Can demons causally interact with the physical world and its inhabitants Can demons perform diabolical miracles Shandon Guthrie broaches new territory beginning with a rigorous defense for the existence of Satan and his cohorts He then advances and defends a model for how to understand their nature in terms of their ontology and causal powers No other book has attempted a full fledged natural diabolology on behalf of Christian orthodoxy This is a must read for anyone interested in the dark side of Christian theology and metaphysics

Choice ,1987 At Home and Abroad in the Empire Robin Hackett,Freda Hauser,Gay Wachman,2009 This book builds upon critical reevaluations of modernism and British literature of the 1930s with a simultaneous focus on discourses of race gender and empire The essays direct attention to the complications and ambivalence accumulating around the meanings of Englishness They reject analyses of texts as chronicles of personal psychological development in favor of analyses that assume texts are shaped by their authors public intellectual involvement In addition they offer detailed specific explorations of ways in which British women in the 1930s narrativize empire and war Thus they will resonate with significance for readers in the early twenty first century for whom empire and war as well as terror and security are part of the discourse of everyday life Robin Hackett is an Associate Professor of English at the University of New Hampshire Freda S Hauser is an independent scholar Gay Wachman is retired from the State University of New York Old Westbury Spiritual Homelands Asher D.
