A Golden Haze of Memory Stephanie E. Yuhl,2006-03-08 Charleston South Carolina today enjoys a reputation as a destination city for cultural and heritage tourism In A Golden Haze of Memory Stephanie E Yuhl looks back to the crucial period between 1920 and 1940 when local leaders developed Charleston s trademark image as America s Most Historic City Eager to assert the national value of their regional cultural traditions and to situate Charleston as a bulwark against the chaos of modern America these descendants of old line families downplayed Confederate associations and emphasized the city s colonial and early national prominence They created a vibrant network of individual artists literary figures and organizations such as the all white Society for the Preservation of Negro Spirituals that nurtured architectural preservation art literature and tourism while appropriating African American folk culture In the process they translated their selective and idiosyncratic personal familial and class memories into a collective identity for the city The Charleston this group built Yuhl argues presented a sanitized yet highly marketable version of the American past Their efforts invited attention and praise from outsiders while protecting social hierarchies and preserving the political and economic power of whites Through the example of this colorful southern city Yuhl posits a larger critique about the use of heritage and demonstrates how something as intangible as the recalled past can be transformed into real political economic and social power

The Stories of Jazz Mario Dunkel,2021-09-22 New Orleans jazz Dixieland Chicago jazz swing bebop cool jazz hard bop and free jazz up until today the history of jazz is told as a tradition consisting of fixed components including a succession of jazz styles How did this construction of music history emerge What were the alternative perspectives And why did the narrative of a fixed tradition catch on In this study Mario Dunkel examines narratives of jazz history from the beginnings of jazz until the late 1950s According to Dunkel the jazz tradition is simultaneously an attempt to approach historical reality and the product of competition between different narratives and cultural myths From the middlebrow culture of the 1920s to the New Deal the African American civil rights movement and the role of the U S in the Cold War Dunkel shows in detail how the jazz tradition as a global narrative of the twentieth century is intertwined with greater social and cultural developments Chicago's New Negroes Davarian L. Baldwin, 2009-11-30 As early twentieth century Chicago swelled with an influx of at least 250 000 new black urban migrants the city became a center of consumer capitalism flourishing with professional sports beauty shops film production companies recording studios and other black cultural and communal institutions Davarian Baldwin argues that this mass consumer marketplace generated a vibrant intellectual life and planted seeds of political dissent against the dehumanizing effects of white capitalism Pushing the traditional boundaries of the Harlem Renaissance to new frontiers Baldwin identifies a fresh model of urban culture rich with politics ingenuity and entrepreneurship Baldwin explores an abundant archive of cultural formations where an array of white observers black cultural producers critics activists reformers and black migrant consumers converged in what he terms a marketplace intellectual life Here the thoughts and lives of Madam C J Walker Oscar Micheaux Andrew Rube Foster Elder Lucy Smith Jack Johnson and Thomas Dorsey emerge as individual expressions of a much wider spectrum of black political and intellectual possibilities By placing consumer based amusements alongside the more formal arenas of church and academe Baldwin suggests important new directions for both the historical study and the constructive future of ideas and politics in American life The Last Tour Ann Curthoys, 2025-07-16 Paul Robeson was once the most famous African American in the world Not only was he a renowned singer and actor with a stunning bass baritone voice revered throughout the world he was also a former professional athlete lawyer and civil rights activist To the delight of his many fans he and his wife Eslanda a notable civil rights activist author United Nations journalist and anthropologist were finally able to tour Australia and New Zealand First mooted in the 1930s it had been delayed by war and then the Cold War when Paul s outspoken support for the Soviet Union and against his country s race relations had led the US government to deny him a passport until 1958 Now in 1960 the tour occurred at a time when the world was at the tipping point between the Cold War 1950s and the turbulent 1960s The Robesons tour encompassed concerts the first one ever at the Sydney Opera House which was still under construction talks to unionists fans women s organisations communists and peace activists It involved active engagement with Indigenous peoples and their struggles in both countries Through their engagement with a wide range of people we see life on the far Left the emergence of new forms of Aboriginal and Maori protest and the reception and influence of African American entertainers in Australia and New Zealand By bringing Eslanda s work as a writer and journalist to the fore historian Ann Curthoys sheds light on the intersections of race gender and women s political activism Based on extensive new documentary and oral history research The Last Tour explores why Paul and Eslanda Robeson s trip was such a success and how it exerted a profound influence both at the time and over future generations No man I ve ever met has so impressed me with his personal greatness He s so simple and unaffected in his manner so dignified it's the man himself I think who demonstrates the greatness of the human spirit Katharine Susannah Prichard on Paul Robeson Paul Robeson Martin Duberman, 2014-08-12 The remarkable life of Paul Robeson quintessential Harlem Renaissance man scholar all American actor activist and firebrand Born the son of an ex slave in New Jersey in 1898 Paul Robeson endowed with multiple gifts seemed destined for fame In his youth he was as tenacious in the classroom as he was on the football field After graduating from Rutgers with high honors he went on to earn a law degree at Columbia Soon after he began a stage and film career that made him one of the country's most celebrated figures But it was not to last Robeson became increasingly vocal about defending black civil rights and criticizing Western imperialism and his radical views ran counter to the country's evermore conservative posture During the McCarthy period Robeson's passport was lifted he was denounced as a traitor and his career was destroyed Yet he refused to bow His powerful and tragic story is emblematic of the major themes of twentieth century history Martin Duberman's exhaustive biography is the result of years of research and interviews and paints a portrait worthy of its incredible subject and his improbable story Duberman uses primary documents to take us deep into Robeson's life giving Robeson the due that he so richly deserves Women and Religion in the African Diaspora R. Marie Griffith, Barbara Dianne Savage, 2006-09-22

This landmark collection of newly commissioned essays explores how diverse women of African descent have practiced religion as part of the work of their ordinary and sometimes extraordinary lives By examining women from North America the Caribbean Brazil and Africa the contributors identify the patterns that emerge as women religion and diaspora intersect mapping fresh approaches to this emergent field of inquiry The volume focuses on issues of history tradition and the authenticity of African derived spiritual practices in a variety of contexts including those where memories of suffering remain fresh and powerful The contributors discuss matters of power and leadership and of religious expressions outside of institutional settings The essays study women of Christian denominations African and Afro Caribbean traditions and Islam addressing their roles as spiritual leaders artists and musicians preachers and participants in bible study groups This volume's transnational mixture along with its use of creative analytical approaches challenges existing paradigms and summons new models for studying women religions and diasporic shiftings across time and space Deep River Paul Allen
