Hasidism Incarnate Shaul Magid, 2014-12-10 Hasidism Incarnate contends that much of modern Judaism in the West developed in reaction to Christianity and in defense of Judaism as a unique tradition Ironically enough this occurred even as modern Judaism increasingly dovetailed with Christianity with regard to its ethos aesthetics and attitude toward ritual and faith Shaul Magid argues that the Hasidic movement in Eastern Europe constitutes an alternative modernity one that opens a new window on Jewish theological history Unlike Judaism in German lands Hasidism did not develop under a Christian gaze and had no need to be apologetic of its positions Unburdened by an apologetic agenda at least toward Christianity it offered a particular reading of medieval Jewish Kabbalah filtered through a focus on the charismatic leader that resulted in a religious worldview that has much in common with Christianity It is not that Hasidic masters knew about Christianity rather the basic tenets of Christianity remained present albeit often in veiled form in much kabbalistic teaching that Hasidism took up in its portrayal of the charismatic figure of the zaddik whom it often described in supernatural terms
