Johnston, 2015-12-03 Is there a growing gap in today's world between cultural aspirations and their fulfillment a gap that is increasing social problems of all kinds If so what forces are producing that gap How can these forces be changed To answer these questions Phillips and Johnston employ a very broad approach to the scientific method drawing evidence from a wide variety of data and sources including sociologists psychologists political scientists historians philosophers educators psychiatrists and novelists They find substantial evidence for a widening gap suggesting an invisible crisis throughout contemporary society They also find substantial evidence that a simplistic and static metaphysical stance or worldview is largely responsible for that gap and that an alternative worldview can work to close that gap Promising Practices: Women Volunteers in Contemporary Japanese Religious Civil Society Paola Cavaliere, 2015-01-27 Based upon a survey of five faith based volunteer groups Promising Practices offers valuable insights and fresh perspectives into the ways women's participation in religious civic organizations may work as a gateway toward participatory democracy By approaching women's faith based volunteering as a social practice the book engages with three of the most important dimensions of civil society gender religion and democracy Cavaliere teases out the complexity of interactions among these three dimensions of civic life through stories of individual women who volunteer for three different religious organizations The volume examines how faith based volunteering is experienced by women in contemporary Japan and how it becomes a site of empowering and disempowering practices through which women balance the benefits and the costs of personal shifts socio economic changes and democratic transformation Guns and Contemporary Society Glenn H. The Fascination with Violence in Contemporary Society Oriana Binik, 2019-10-22 This book directly explores the question of why contemporary society is so fascinated with violence and crime The Fascination with Violence in Contemporary Society posits that the phenomenon is in part because we have all become consumers of the sublime an intense and strongly ambiguous emotion which is increasingly commodified Through the experience of violence and the sense of disorientation that accompanies it we obsessively seek out moments of intensified existence Equally crime continues to speak to the depths of the collective unconscious questioning us about our transience and the model of society we wish to live in Binik proposes that this is why the reaction to violence has become a tool with which to express and take ownership of a desire for social cohesion This book uses interviews with viewers dark tourists collectors and others to further interrogate this social trend Many of these are participants in the four key case studies explored within the study emotional pathways while watching a true crime TV series the trend of dark tourism murderabilia collecting and the fanaticism of and for Anders Breivik This book seeks to answer one of the most pressing cultural trends of the modern age and fill in a gap in the criminological literature on the subject
