The First Transcontinental Railroad James K. Wheaton, 2011 The First Transcontinental Railroad originally called the Pacific Railroad was a railroad built in the United States between 1863 and 1869 that connected the western part of America with its eastern part Built by the Central Pacific Railroad of California and the Union Pacific Railroad it connected the Eastern terminus of Council Bluffs Iowa Omaha Nebraska with the railroad lines of the Pacific Ocean at Oakland California In time it would link in with the existing railway network present on the Eastern Coast of America thus connecting the Atlantic and Pacific coast of the United States for the first time by rail Because of this the line received a second nickname the Overland Route The railroad was a government operation authorized by Congress during the height of the Civil War Congress passed the Pacific Railroad Acts in 1862 and again in 1864 To pay for it the US government issued 30 year bonds as well as granting government land to contractors The construction of the line was a major achievement by both the Union Pacific constructing westward from Iowa and the Central Pacific constructing eastward from California The line was officially opened on May 10 1869 with the Last Spike driven through the railway at Promontory Summit Utah James K Wheaton looks at the history in this eBook

The Latinization of Indigenous Students Rebecca A. Campbell-Montalvo, 2023-05-15 Based upon research in rural central Florida The Latinization of Indigenous Students examines how schools perceive and process demographic information including how those perceptions may erase Indigeneity and impact resource access Based on multiyear fieldwork Campbell Montalvo argues that languages and racial identities of Indigenous Latinx students and families may be re formed by schools erasing Indigeneity However programs such as the federally funded Migrant Education Program can foster equitable access by encouraging pedagogies that position teachers as cultural insiders or learners Anchored by pertinent anthropological theories this work advances our ability to name and explain pedagogical phenomena and their role in rectifying or reproducing colonialism among marginalized and minoritized groups
