

Human Condition of Terror: Radiation, Terrorism, Viruses

Māris Kūlis, University of Latvia, Institute of Philosophy and Sociology, Riga, Latvia<sup>1</sup>

Abstract: The aim of this chapter is to outline the use of phenomenological and hermeneutic ideas in terrorism studies through the reinterpretation of ‘terrorism’ as ‘terror’. The chapter will first consider contemporary trends in the methodology of terrorism studies and the shortcomings to be found. Current mainstream terrorism studies can be divided into two major directions but there is a third option available for terrorism studies, one that would employ ideas of phenomenology and hermeneutics. Eco-phenomenology would look at narratives and meanings as they appear over the horizon of history and culture. The introduction of phenomenology and hermeneutics in terrorism studies would cause a conceptual shift that should return the focus to the fundamental element of terrorism — that of terror. The final part of the chapter will illustrate this approach using some instances of terror (the atomic bomb and radiation; military terrorism and a virus) by expanding and commenting on phenomenologically-observable shifts in meaning: with chemical and nuclear weapons ‘breath’ becomes a threat; with military terrorism and counter-terrorism ‘sky’ becomes a source of danger, while a virus lands threats on ‘surfaces’. The development of thought from terrorism studies to the pandemic is a reflection of an eco-phenomenological idea viewing the environment as imbued with meanings and ideas rather than a material totality.
