THE FESTIVAL OF BRITAIN

April-May 1951

As with all things in post-war Britain, the post-war Festival of Britain was a product of its time. It was a celebration of the nation's recovery and a showcase for the new Britain. The festival was a triumph of design and architecture, and it was a testament to the power of the British design movement.

At the heart of the festival was a series of buildings designed by the architects of the post-war movement. These buildings were a testament to the power of the British design movement, and they were a triumph of design and architecture. The festival was a celebration of the nation's recovery and a showcase for the new Britain. The festival was a triumph of design and architecture, and it was a testament to the power of the British design movement.
