Taming the Yellow River: Silt and Floods L.M. Brush, M. Gordon Wolman, 2012-12-06

About four years ago, Dr. Gilbert White visited China and sowed the seeds of this project through conversations with Drs. Huang and Gong of the Chinese Academy of Sciences and Mr. Long of the Yellow River Conservancy Commission. After some additional rounds of communications by letter, the plan for a workshop evolved, and Drs. Wolman and Brush visited with Dr. Sabadell of the National Science Foundation to begin the initial planning. In March 1987, Dr. Brush visited China, and the details were worked out for the October 1987 workshop. At the outset, it was recognized that the 10 American scientists and engineers had very little knowledge of the Yellow River, and none had ever seen it. Therefore, it became important that field trips be scheduled before the workshop to better set the stage for fruitful discussions. It was also acknowledged that the American participants could not present papers about the Yellow River, per se, so their offerings reflected their general knowledge of rivers, using other rivers as examples. On the other hand, the Chinese participants were all well-versed in the difficult problems of harnessing the Yellow River and made their presentations accordingly. Despite these differences, the subject matter was the unifying thread, and cross-communication was excellent.

When the Yellow River Floods Hui-Lin Hsu, 2024-01-09

When the Yellow River Floods explores the relationship between environmental degradation, hydraulic engineering, and nation building in the context of Liu Hsiang-shan's The Travels of Lao Can. This book contributes to the field by providing a unique perspective on modern Chinese literary history that goes beyond conventional narratives that focus solely on political and cultural factors. The main areas covered include the role of water management in literary nation building and the connections between the novel's various themes, such as river engineering, medical and political discourses, national sentiment, and landscape description. The book is targeted toward scholars and students of Chinese literature, history, and environmental studies, as well as those interested in the intersections between literature, nation building, and environmental challenges. By offering a comprehensive and material-based analysis of The Travels of Lao Can, this book broadens the understanding of nation building in early twentieth-century China, highlighting the impact of environmental crises and hydraulics on the formation of national literature and consciousness. The book provides a new perspective on the environmental roots of modern Chinese literature making it an essential read for those seeking to understand the complex interplay between literature the environment and national identity in China Cantonese Love-songs Ziyong Zhao,1904
