Slow Fade To Black The Negro In American Film 1900 1942:

Slow Fade to Black Thomas Cripps, 1977-02-03 Set against the backdrop of the black struggle in society Slow Fade to Black is the definitive history of African American accomplishment in film both before and behind the camera from the earliest movies through World War II As he records the changing attitudes toward African Americans both in Hollywood and the nation at large Cripps explores the growth of discrimination as filmmakers became more and more intrigued with myths of the Old South the lost cause aspect of the Civil War the stately mansions and gracious ladies of the antebellum South the happy slaves singing in the fields Cripps shows how these characterizations culminated in the blatantly racist attitudes of Griffith's The Birth of a Nation and how this film inspired the N A A C P to campaign vigorously and successfully for change While the period of the 1920s to 1940s was one replete with Hollywood stereotypes blacks most often appeared as domestics or natives or were portrayed in shiftless cowardly Stepin Fetchit roles there was also an attempt at independent black production on the whole unsuccessful But with the coming of World War II increasing pressures for a wider use of blacks in films and calls for more equitable treatment African Americans did begin to receive more sympathetic roles such as that of Sam the piano player in the 1942 classic Casablanca A lively thorough history of African Americans in the movies Slow Fade to Black is also a perceptive social commentary on evolving racial attitudes in this country during the first four decades of the twentieth century

Slow Fade to Black Thomas Cripps, 1993      Remaking Race and History RenŽe Ater, Meta Warrick Fuller, 2011-11-22 The George Gund Foundation imprint in African American studies      Black Masculinity on Film Daniel O'Brien, 2017-09-06 This book provides wide ranging commentary on depictions of the black male in mainstream cinema O'Brien explores the extent to which counter representations of black masculinity have been achieved within a predominately white industry with an emphasis on agency the negotiation and malleability of racial status and the inherent instability of imposed racial categories Focusing on American and European cinema the chapters highlight actors Woody Strode Noble Johnson Eddie Anderson Will Smith genres jungle pictures westerns science fiction and franchises Tarzan James Bond underrepresented in previous critical and scholarly commentary in the field The author argues that although the characters and performances generated in these areas invoke popular genre types they display complexity diversity and ambiguity exhibiting aspects that are positive progressive and subversive This book will appeal to both the academic and the general reader interested in film race gender and colonial issues      Women and Mixed Race Representation in Film

Valerie C. Gilbert, 2021-09-24 This book uses a black white interracial lens to examine the lives and careers of eight prominent American born actresses from the silent age through the studio era New Hollywood and into the present century Josephine Baker Nina Mae McKinney Fredi Washington Lena Horne Dorothy Dandridge Lonette McKee Jennifer Beals and Halle Berry Combining biography with detailed film readings the author fleshes out the tragic mulatto stereotype while at the same time exploring concepts and themes such as racial identity the one drop rule passing skin color transracial adoption interracial romance and more With a wealth of background information this study also places these actresses in historical context providing insight into the construction of race both onscreen and off

How It Feels to Be Free Ruth Feldstein, 2013-11-26 Winner of the Benjamin L Hooks National Book Award Winner of the Michael Nelson Prize of the International Association for Media and History In 1964 Nina Simone sat at a piano in New York's Carnegie Hall to play what she called a show tune Then she began to sing Alabama's got me so upset Tennessee made me lose my rest And everybody knows about Mississippi Goddam Simone and her song became icons of the civil rights movement But her confrontational style was not the only path taken by black women entertainers In How It Feels to Be Free Ruth Feldstein examines celebrated black women performers illuminating the risks they took their roles at home and abroad and the ways that they raised the issue of gender amid their demands for black liberation Feldstein focuses on six women who made names for themselves in the music film and television industries Simone Lena Horne Miriam Makeba Abbey Lincoln Diahann Carroll and Cicely Tyson These women did not simply mirror black activism their performances helped constitute the era's political history Makeba connected America's struggle for civil rights to the fight against apartheid in South Africa while Simone sparked high profile controversy with her incendiary lyrics Yet Feldstein finds nuance in their careers In 1968 Hollywood cast the outspoken Lincoln as a maid to a white family in For Love of Ivy adding a layer of complication to the film That same year Diahann Carroll took on the starring role in the television series Julia Was Julia a landmark for casting a black woman or for treating her race as unimportant The answer is not clear cut Yet audiences gave broader meaning to what sometimes seemed to be apolitical performances How It Feels to Be Free demonstrates that entertainment was not always just entertainment and that We Shall Overcome was not the only soundtrack to the civil rights movement By putting black women performances at center stage Feldstein sheds light on the meanings of black womanhood in a revolutionary time

Do What You Gotta Do Ruth Feldstein, 2013 Do What You Gotta Do examines the role of black female entertainers in the Civil Rights movement

Black Children in Hollywood Cinema Debbie Olson, 2017-03-14 This book explores cultural conceptions of the child and the cinematic absence of black children from contemporary Hollywood film Debbie Olson argues that within the discourse of children's studies and film scholarship in relation to the conception of the child there is often little to no distinction among children by race the child is most often discussed as a universal entity as the embodiment of all things not adult not sexually corrupt Discussions about children of color among scholars often take place within contexts such as crime drugs urbanization poverty or lack of education that tend to reinforce historically stereotypical beliefs about African Americans Olson looks at historical conceptions of childhood within scholarly discourse the child character in popular film and what space the black child both African and African American occupies within that ideal

Disfigured Images Patricia Morton, 1991-05-21 Much of the material unearthed by this book is ugly states historiographer Patricia Morton who exposes profoundly dehumanizing constructions of reality embedded in American scholarship as it has attempted to render the history of the Afro American woman Focusing on the scholarly literature of fact rather than on fictional or popular portrayals Disfigured Images explores the telling and frequent mis telling of the story of black women during a century of American historiography beginning in the late nineteenth century and extending to the present Morton finds that during this period a large body of scholarly literature was generated that presented little fact and much fiction about black women's history The book's ten chapters take long and lingering looks at the black woman's prefabricated past Contemporary revisionist studies with their goals of discovering and articulating the real nature of the slave woman's experience and role are thoroughly examined in the conclusion Disfigured Images complements current work by recognizing in its findings a long needed refutation of a caricatured mythical version of black women's history Morton's introduction presents an overview of her subject emphasizing the mythical ingrained nature of the black woman's image in historiography as a natural and permanent slave The succeeding chapters use historical and social science works as primary sources to explore such issues as the foundations of sexism racism the writing of W E B DuBois twentieth century notions of black women current black and women's studies new and old images of motherhood and more The conclusion investigates how and why recent American historiographical scholarship has banished the old myths by presenting a more accurate history of black women This keenly perceptive and original study should find an influential place in both women's studies and black studies programs as well as in American history American literature and sociology departments With its unusually complete panorama of the period covered it would be a unique and valuable addition to courses such as slavery the American South women in North American history Afro American history race and sex in American literature and discourse and the sociology of race

Early Race Filmmaking in America Barbara Lupack, 2016-05-26 The early years of the twentieth century were a formative time in the long history of struggle for black representation More than any other medium movies reflected the tremendous changes occurring in American society Unfortunately since they drew heavily on the nineteenth century theatrical conventions of blackface minstrelsy and the Uncle Tom Show traditions early pictures persisted in casting blacks in demeaning and outrageous caricatures that marginalized and burlesqued them and emphasized their comic or servile behavior By contrast race films that is movies that were black cast black oriented and viewed primarily by black audiences in segregated theaters attempted to counter the crude stereotyping and regressive representations by presenting more authentic racial portrayals This volume examines race filmmaking from numerous perspectives By reanimating a critical but neglected period of early cinema the years between the turn of the century and 1930 the end of the silent film era it provides a fascinating look at the efforts of early race film pioneers and offers a vibrant portrait of race and racial representation in American film and culture The Southern

Diaspora James N. Gregory, 2006-05-18 Between 1900 and the 1970s twenty million southerners migrated north and west Weaving together for the first time the histories of these black and white migrants James Gregory traces their paths and experiences in a comprehensive new study that demonstrates how this regional diaspora reshaped America by southernizing communities and transforming important cultural and political institutions Challenging the image of the migrants as helpless and poor Gregory shows how both black and white southerners used their new surroundings to become agents of change Combining personal stories with cultural political and demographic analysis he argues that the migrants helped create both the modern civil rights movement and modern conservatism They spurred changes in American religion notably modern evangelical Protestantism and in popular culture including the development of blues jazz and country music In a sweeping account that pioneers new understandings of the impact of mass migrations Gregory recasts the history of twentieth century America He demonstrates that the southern diaspora was crucial to transformations in the relationship between American regions in the politics of race and class and in the roles of religion the media and culture Black Movements in America

Cedric J. Robinson, 1997 First Published in 1997 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Fighting a Movie with Lightning : „The Birth of a Nation“ and the Black Community Stefanie Laufs, 2014-02-01 Despite their efforts black activists throughout the early 20th century were not able to achieve full equality and fair treatment in society However they gained a new way of thinking that resulted in the formation of the New Negro This term in essence designates a new way of thinking in the black community Its members were neither satisfied with nor accepted their inferior position in society and were willing to fight for their rights Phenomena that paradoxically had a positive impact on the black community as a whole and especially on the New Negro were the actions undertaken by African Americans all over the United States in response to D W Griffith s racist 1915 silent movie The Birth of a Nation It is the aim of this paper to prove that these activities undertaken by African Americans and their supporters in the early 20th century against The Birth of a Nation influenced and shaped the black community as a whole but especially the notion of the New Negro both politically and culturally Freedom's Racial Frontier Herbert G. Ruffin, Dwayne A. Mack, 2018-03-15 Between 1940 and 2010 the black population of the American West grew from 710 400 to 7 million With that explosive growth has come a burgeoning interest in the history of the African American West an interest reflected in the remarkable range and depth of the works collected in

Freedom's Racial Frontier Editors Herbert G Ruffin II and Dwayne A Mack have gathered established and emerging scholars in the field to create an anthology that links past current and future generations of African American West scholarship The volume's sixteen chapters address the African American experience within the framework of the West as a multicultural frontier The result is a fresh perspective on western U S history centered on the significance of African American life culture and social justice in almost every trans Mississippi state Examining and interpreting the twentieth century while mindful of events and developments since 2000 the contributors focus on community formation cultural diversity civil rights and black empowerment and artistic creativity and identity Reflecting the dynamic evolution of new approaches and new sites of knowledge in the field of western history the authors consider its interconnections with fields such as cultural studies literature and sociology Some essays deal with familiar places while others look at understudied sites such as Albuquerque Oahu and Las Vegas Nevada By examining black suburbanization the Information Age and gentrification in the urban West several authors conceive of a Third Great Migration of African Americans to and within the West The West revealed in Freedom's Racial Frontier is a place where black Americans have fought and continue to fight to make their idea of freedom live up to their expectations of equality a place where freedom is still a frontier for most persons of African heritage Left of Hollywood Chris Robé, 2011-11-15 In the 1930s as the capitalist system faltered many in the United States turned to the political Left Hollywood so deeply embedded in capitalism was not immune to this shift Left of Hollywood offers the first book length study of Depression era Left film theory and criticism in the United States Rob studies the development of this theory and criticism over the course of the 1930s as artists and intellectuals formed alliances in order to establish an engaged political film movement that aspired toward a popular cinema of social change Combining extensive archival research with careful close analysis of films Rob explores the origins of this radical social formation of U S Left film culture Grounding his arguments in the surrounding contexts and aesthetics of a few films in particular Sergei Eisenstein's Que Viva Mexico Fritz Lang's Fury William Dieterle's Juarez and Jean Renoir's La Marseillaise Rob focuses on how film theorists and critics sought to foster audiences who might push both film culture and larger social practices in more progressive directions Turning at one point to anti lynching films Rob discusses how these movies united black and white film critics forging an alliance of writers who championed not only critical spectatorship but also the public support of racial equality Yet despite a stated interest in forging more egalitarian social relations gender bias was endemic in Left criticism of the era and female centered films were regularly discounted Thus Rob provides an in depth examination of this overlooked shortcoming of U S Left film criticism and theory The Cambridge Companion to Modern American Culture Christopher Bigsby, 2006-10-12 The Cambridge Companion to Modern American Culture offers a comprehensive authoritative and accessible overview of the cultural themes and intellectual issues that drive the dominant culture of the twentieth century This companion explores the social political and economic forces that have made America what it is today It shows how these contexts impact upon twentieth century American literature cinema and art An international team of contributors examines the special contribution of African Americans and of immigrant communities to the variety and vibrancy of modern America The essays range from art to politics popular culture to sport immigration and race to religion and war Varied extensive and challenging this Companion is essential reading for students and teachers of American studies around the world It is the most accessible and useful introduction available to an exciting range of topics in modern American culture World War II, Film, and

History John Whiteclay Chambers II, David Culbert, 1996-10-10 The immediacy and perceived truth of the visual image as well as film and television's ability to propel viewers back into the past place the genre of the historical film in a special category War films including antiwar films have established the prevailing public image of war in the twentieth century For American audiences the dominant image of trench warfare in World War I has been provided by feature films such as All Quiet on the Western Front and Paths of Glory The image of combat in the Second World War has been shaped by films like Sands of Iwo Jima and The Longest Day And despite claims for the alleged impact of widespread television coverage of the Vietnam War it is actually films such as Apocalypse Now and Platoon which have provided the most powerful images of what is seen as the reality of that much disputed conflict But to what degree does history written with lightning as Woodrow Wilson allegedly said represent the reality of the past To what extent is visual history an oversimplification or even a distortion of the past Exploring the relationship between moving images and the society and culture in which they were produced and received World War II Film and History addresses the power these images have had in determining our perception and memories of war Examining how the public memory of war in the twentieth century has often been created more by a manufactured past than a remembered one a leading group of historians discusses films dating from the early 1930s through the early 1990s created by filmmakers the world over from the United States and Germany to Japan and the former Soviet Union For example Freda Freiberg explains how the inter racial melodramatic Japanese feature film China Nights in which a manly and protective Japanese naval officer falls in love with a beautiful young Chinese street waif and molds her into a cultured submissive wife proved enormously popular with wartime Japanese and helped justify the invasion of China in the minds of many Japanese viewers Peter Paret assesses the historical accuracy of Kolberg as a depiction of an unsuccessful siege of that German city by a French Army in 1807 and explores how the film released by Hitler's regime in January 1945 explicitly called for civilian sacrifice and last ditch resistance Stephen Ambrose contrasts what we know about the historical reality of the Allied D Day landings in Normandy on June 6 1944 with the 1962 release of The Longest Day in which the major climactic moment in the film never happened at Normandy Alice Kessler Harris examines The Life and Times of Rosie the Riveter a 1982 film documentary about women defense workers on the American home front in World War II emphasizing the degree to which the documentary's engaging main characters and its message of the need for fair and equal treatment for women resonates with many contemporary viewers And Clement Alexander Price contrasts Men of

Bronze William Miles's fine documentary about black American soldiers who fought in France in World War I with Liberators the controversial documentary by Miles and Nina Rosenblum which incorrectly claimed that African American troops liberated Holocaust survivors at Dachau in World War II In today's visually oriented world powerful images even images of images are circulated in an eternal cycle gaining increased acceptance through repetition History becomes an endless loop in which repeated images validate and reconfirm each other Based on archival materials many of which have become only recently available World War II Film and History offers an informative and a disturbing look at the complex relationship between national myths and filmic memory as well as the dangers of visual images being transformed into reality
