

The background of the cover is a dark, atmospheric illustration of a forest scene. In the center, a waterfall flows over a large, mossy rock. The surrounding area is filled with more rocks, dense foliage, and the trunks of trees, creating a sense of a wild, secluded natural environment. The lighting is dim, with some highlights on the water and the rocks.

Below him was a glen with a stream in a coppice of oaks and alders, and across the valley half a day's journey distant another hill steep and bristling, raised against the sky, a little walled town with Ghibelline swallow tails. When the Hermit was a lad and lived in the town, the crenellations of the walls had been square-topped, and a Guelf lord had flown his standard from the keep. Then one day a steel-colored line of men at arms rode across the valley, wound up the hill, and battered in the gates. Stones and Greek fire rained from the ramparts, shields clashed in the streets, blade sprang at blade in passages and stairways, pikes and lances dripped above huddled flesh, and all the still familiar place was a stew of dying bodies. The boy fled from it in horror. About the Publisher: Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com. unmutilated earth He had no wish to go back His longing was to live hidden from life Up the hillside he found a hollow in the rock and built before it a porch of boughs bound together with withies He fed on nuts and roots and on trout which he caught with his hands under the stones in the stream He had always been a quiet boy liking to sit at his mother s feet and watch the flowers grow on her embroidery frame while the chaplain read aloud the histories of the Desert Fathers from a great silver clasped volume He would rather have been bred a clerk and scholar than a knight s son and his happiest moments were when he served mass for the chaplain in the early morning and felt his heart flutter up and up like a lark up and up till it was lost in infinite space and brightness Almost as happy were the hours when he sat beside the foreign painter who came over the mountains to paint the chapel and under whose brush celestial faces grew out of the rough wall as if he had sown some magic seed which flowered while you watched it
