Dorothy Kilner's The Life and Perambulations of a Mouse reflects her deep understanding of childhood imagination and curiosity. As a prolific writer of children's literature, Kilner's own experiences as a mother and educator likely influenced the themes and characters in this book. P., 1795 Talking Animals in British Children's Fiction, 1786-1914 Tess Cosslett, 2017-03-02 In her reappraisal of canonical works such as Black Beauty, Beautiful Joe, Wind in the Willows, and Peter Rabbit, Tess Cosslett traces how nineteenth-century debates about the human and animal intersected with or left their mark on the venerable genre of the animal story written for children. Effortlessly applying a range of critical approaches from Bakhtinian ideas of the carnivalesque to feminist postcolonial and ecocritical theory, she raises important questions about the construction of the child reader, the qualifications of the implied author, and the possibilities of children's literature compared with literature written for adults. Perhaps most crucially, Cosslett examines how the issues of animal speech and animal subjectivity were managed at a time when the possession of language and consciousness had become a vital sign of the difference between humans and animals. Topics of great contemporary concern such as the relation of the human and the natural, masculine and feminine, child and adult are investigated within their nineteenth-century contexts, making this an important book for nineteenth-century scholars, children,
