Uglow, 2002 In the 1760s a group of amateur experimenters met and made friends in the Midlands Most came from humble families all lived far from the centre of things but they were young and their optimism was boundless together they would change the world Among them were the ambitious toy maker Matthew Boulton and his partner James Watt of steam engine fame the potter Josiah Wedgwood the larger than life Erasmus Darwin physician poet inventor and theorist of evolution a forerunner of his grandson Charles Later came Joseph Priestley discoverer of oxygen and fighting radical The Lunar Men Jennifer S. Uglow, Jenny Uglow, 2002-09-16 In the 1760s a group of amateur experimenters met and made friends in the Midlands Most came from humble families all lived far from the centre of things but they were young and their optimism was boundless together they would change the world Among them were the ambitious toy maker Matthew Boulton and his partner James Watt of steam engine fame the potter Josiah Wedgwood the larger than life Erasmus Darwin physician poet inventor and theorist of evolution a forerunner of his grandson Charles Later came Joseph Priestley discoverer of oxygen and fighting radical Bound to Please Michael Dirda, 2005 A showcase of one hundred of the world s most significant books offers the author s introductory essays on such writers as James Boswell Colette and Joseph Roth and includes explorations of a range of genres and specific works The Age of Projects Maximillian E. Novak, 2008-08-23 The Projecting Age was a term the English novelist Daniel Defoe used to describe the end of the seventeenth century This term could just as easily be used however to describe the period known as the Long Eighteenth Century 1660 1789 The Age of Projects uses the notion of a project as a key to understanding the massive social cultural political literary and scientific transitions that occurred in Europe during this time The contributors to this collection examine fraudulent grandiose altruistic and idealistic projects that reveal the period s radical breaks from the past and its preoccupation with the future Examining topics as diverse as Jonathan Swift s satire on the possibility of a computer to Gottfried Leibniz s effort to build one and Edmund Burke s prediction that the project of democratic governance would be taken over by greedy adventurers this volume provides significant insight into the period s ambitions for an improved future A well balanced collection by leading scholars from diverse disciplines The Age of Projects is a significant contribution to intellectual history literary history and the history of science A Hybrid Imagination Andrew Jamison, Steen Hyldgaard Christensen, Lars Botin, 2022-05-31 This book presents a cultural perspective on scientific and technological development As opposed to the story lines of economic innovation and social construction that tend to dominate both the popular and scholarly literature on science technology and society or STS the authors offer an alternative approach devoting special attention to the role played by social and cultural movements in the making of science and technology They show how social and cultural movements from the Renaissance of the late 15th century to the environmental and global justice movements of our time have provided contexts or sites for mixing scientific knowledge and technical skills from different fields and social domains into new combinations thus fostering what the authors term a hybrid imagination Such a hybrid imagination is especially important today as a way to counter the competitive and commercial hubris that is so much taken for granted in contemporary science and engineering discourses and practices with a sense of cooperation and social responsibility The book portrays the history of science and technology as an underlying tension between hubris literally the ambition to play god on the part of many a scientist and engineer and neglect the consequences and a hybrid imagination connecting scientific facts and technological artifacts with cultural understanding The book concludes with chapters on the recent transformations in the modes of scientific and technological production since the Second World War and the contending approaches to greening science and technology in relation to the global quest for sustainable development The book is based on a series of lectures that were given by Andrew Jamison at the Technical University of Denmark in 2010 and draws on the authors many years of experience in teaching non technical or contextual knowledge to science and engineering students The book has been written as part of the Program of Research on Opportunities and Challenges in Engineering Education in Denmark PROCEED supported by the Danish Strategic Research Council from 2010 to 2013 Table of Contents Introduction Perceptions of Science and Technology Where Did Science and Technology Come From Science Technology and Industrialization Science Technology and Modernization Science Technology and Globalization The Greening of Science and Technology

Hubris and

Hybrids Mikael Hård, Andrew Jamison, 2013-09-13 Human societies have not always taken on new technology in appropriate ways. Innovations are double edged swords that transform relationships among people as well as between human societies and the natural world. Only through successful cultural appropriation can we manage to control the hubris that is fundamental to the innovative enterprising human spirit and only by becoming hybrids combining the human and the technological will we be able to make effective use of our scientific and technological achievements. This broad cultural history of technology and science provides a range of stories and reflections about the past, discussing areas such as film, industrial design and alternative environmental technologies and including not only European and North American but also Asian examples to help resolve the contradictions of contemporary high tech civilization.
