think and feel through desire as central to their writing practice In a time of political social global and ecological unrest how might we understand desire the desire for things to be different the desire for a better world as a crucial dimension of contemporary human experience What might such a recentring of desire offer us personally and politically And how is writing itself as one of the primary ways through which we express and explore ourselves central to the expression and exploration of desire Drawing on recent theoretical work in queer theory and the new materialism Jonathan Alexander studies a range of queer and trans writers and artists who center desire in their practice and argues that conceptualizing writing as desire allows us to reexperience both writing and our world as saturated with our dreams and wishes for change In a book both elegant and unsettling and by turns personal analytic and experimental Alexander challenges us and himself to think about desire and writing as the deepest manifestation of our hopes for the future Lyotard and the 'figural' in Performance, Art and Writing Kiff Bamford, 2012-06-28 An innovative study of the thought and writings of Jean Francois Lyotard in relation to contemporary art and in particular performance art The Whole Works of King Alfred the Great: with Preliminary Essays Illustrative of the History, Arts, and Manners, of the Ninth Century Alfred (King of England), 1852 The World's Paper Trade Review, 1915 Wendell Berry: Essays 1993-2017 (LOA #317) Wendell Berry, 2019-05-21
