The Mark Of Oppression Explorations In The Personality Of The American Negro Meridians:

The Mark of Oppression Abram Kardiner, Lionel Ovesey, 1964 The Mark of Oppression Abram Kardiner, Lionel Ovesey, 1969 The African-Americanization of the Black Diaspora in Globalization or the Contemporary Capitalist World-System Paul C. Mocombe, Carol Tomlin, Christine Callender, 2016-11-16 This work sets forth the argument that in the age of neoliberal globalization black people around the world are ever so slowly becoming African Americanized. They are integrated and embourgeoised in the racial class dialectic of black America by the material and ideological influences of the Protestant ethic and the spirit of capitalism as promulgated throughout the diaspora by two social class language games of the black American community: the black underclass Hip Hop culture speaking for and representing black youth practical consciousness and black American charismatic liberal conservative bourgeois Protestant preachers like TD Jakes, Creflo Dollar etc speaking for and representing the black bourgeois educated professional and working classes. Although on the surface the practical consciousness and language of the two social class language games appear to diametrically oppose one another, the authors argue given the two groups' material wealth within the Protestant ethic and the spirit of capitalism of corporate neoliberal America, they do not. Both groups have the same underlying practical consciousness: subjects/agents of the Protestant Ethic and the spirit of capitalism. The divergences where they exist are due to their interpellation, embourgeoisement, and differentiation via different ideological apparatuses of the society: church and education i.e. schools for the latter and prisons, the streets, and athletic and entertainment industries for the former. Contemporarily in the age of globalization and neoliberalism, both groups have become the bearers of ideological and linguistic domination in black neoliberal America and are antagonistically converging the practical consciousness of the black or African diaspora towards their respective social class language games. We are suggesting that the socialization of other black people in the diaspora ought to be examined against and within the dialectical backdrop of this class power dynamic and the cultural and religious heritages of the black American people responsible for this phenomenon or process of convergence we are referring to as the African Americanization of the black diaspora. Color, Culture, Civilization Stanford M. Lyman, 1995 Black Culture and Black Consciousness Lawrence W. Levine, 1978 Surveys the oral cultural heritage of black Americans as manifested in music, folk tales, and heroes and humor Psychiatry and Racial Liberalism in Harlem, 1936-1968 Dennis A. Doyle, 2016 Reveals the history of the individuals who worked to make psychiatry more available to Harlem's black community in the early Civil Rights Era. Toward the middle of the twentieth century African Americans in New York City began to receive increased access to mental health care in some facilities within the city's mental health system. This study documents how and why this important change in public health and in public opinion on race occurred. Drawing on records from New York's children's courts, Harlem's public schools, Columbia University, and the Department of Hospitals, Dennis Doyle tells here the story of the American psychiatrists and civil servants who helped codify

in New York's mental health policies the view that blacks and whites are psychological equals The book examines in particular the events through which these racial liberals working in Harlem gained a foothold within New York's public institutions creating inclusive public policies and ostensibly race neutral standards of care Psychiatry and Racial Liberalism in Harlem 1936-1968 not only contributes to the growing body of historiography on race and medical institutions in the civil rights era but more importantly shows how inveterate racial prejudices within public policy can be overcome Dennis A Doyle is assistant professor of history at the Saint Louis College of Pharmacy

The Paths to Domination, Resistance, and Terror Carolyn Nordstrom, Joann Martin, 1992-02-25 The Paths to Terror offers a new and refreshing perspective on sociopolitical violence one that highlights the human experience of domination resistance and terror as they are woven into the fabric of everyday life These innovative essays take the reader from the Americas through Europe and the Middle East and to Asia to capture the cultural construction of sociopolitical violence The authors expand our view of the ethnographic reality revealing the complex interplay among local national and international actors in the perpetuation of violence and terror The organization of the essays along a continuum from domination through the emergence of resistance to the development of cultures of conflict and terror underlines the value of understanding the growth and resolution of violence as cultural dynamics
