Emmelman,2018-05-08 This title was first published in 2003 In this study the author examines the behavior of one group of court appointed defence attorneys and reaches the conclusion that although in contrast to popular opinion these attorneys maintain an adversarial stance against the prosecutors and behave in a legally ethical or procedurally just manner case outcomes are unduly shaped by social class and are therefore substantively unjust This occurs because poor defendants typically lack cultural rhetoric that favourably influences those who construct and operate the criminal court system Ironically this indicates that in many cases the process of plea bargaining may be more substantively just than trials A major contribution of the study is the detailed analysis of the manner by which oppression and substantive injustice occur in the adjudication of many cases and how the cultural practices of the powerful can frequently misconstrue exclude and mute the voices of the poor

Lives in the Law Austin Sarat, Lawrence Douglas, Martha Umphrey, 2009-03-06

The essays look at the consequences that legal practice has on the lives of its practitioners as well as on the individual legal subject and on the shape of shared identities

These essays challenge liberal and communitarian notions of what it means to live the law

In the first of the essays Pnina Lahav presents a study of the Chicago Seven Trial to paint a picture of the law's power to serve as a site for the definition of a collective group identity

In contrast Sarah Gordon focuses on the experience of an individual legal subject namely the defendant in the Hester Vaughn trial a notorious nineteenth century case of infanticide

Frank Munger looks at how law constructs the identity of women and explores the strategies by which poor women resist the law's construction of their dependency

In the fourth essay Vicki Schultz offers a moral vision of equality that straddles the liberal and communitarian positions with her articulation of the concept of a life's work

Lastly Annette Wieviorka examines the recent trial of Maurice Papon for complicity in crimes against humanity to reveal how the very identity of a nation in this case France can be defined through juridical and legal acts

Daniels v. Canada Nathalie Kermoal, Chris Andersen, 2021-04-23

In Daniels v Canada the Supreme Court determined that Métis and non status Indians were Indians under section 91(24) of the Constitution Act 1867 one of a number of court victories that has powerfully shaped Métis relationships with the federal government

However the decision and the case continues to reverberate far beyond its immediate policy implications

Bringing together scholars and practitioners from a wide array of professional contexts this volume demonstrates the power of Supreme Court of Canada cases to directly and indirectly shape our conversations about and conceptions of what Indigeneity is what its boundaries are and what Canadians believe Indigenous peoples are owed Attention to Daniels v Canada s variegated impacts also demonstrates the extent to which the power of the courts extend and refract far deeper and into a much wider array of social arenas than we often give them credit for This volume demonstrates the importance of understanding law beyond its jurisprudential manifestations but it also points to the central importance of respecting the power of court cases in how law is carried out in a liberal nation state such as Canada
