Social Experimentation A Method For Planning And Evaluating Social Intervention:

Social Experimentation Henry W. Riecken, Robert F. Boruch, 2013-09-11 Social Experimentation A Method for Planning and Evaluating Social Intervention summarizes the available knowledge about how randomized experiments might be used in planning and evaluating ameliorative social programs The book presents various aspects of social experimentation design measurement execution sponsorship and utilization of results Chapters are devoted to topics on experimentation as a method of program planning and evaluation experimental design and analysis institutional and political factors in social experimentation and aspects of time and institutional capacity Sociologists will find the book a valuable piece of reference

Social Experiments Larry L. Orr, 1999 Intended to provide a basic understanding not only of how to design and implement social experiments but also of how to interpret their results once they are completed author Larry L Orr s Social Experiments is written in a friendly how to manner Through the use of illustrative examples how to exhibits and cases and boldface key words Orr provides readers with a grounding in the experimental method including the rational and ethical issues of random assignment designs that best address alternative policy questions maximizing the precision of the estimates implementing the experiment in the field data collection estimating and interpreting program impacts costs and benefits dealing with potential biases and the use and misuse of experimental results in the policy process This book will be useful not only to those who plan to conduct experiments but also to the much larger group who will at one time or another want to understand the results of experimental evaluations

Evaluating Governmental Performance, 1975 Evaluation and Experiment Carl A. Bennett, Arthur A. Lumsdaine, 2013-09-24 Evaluation and Experiment Some Critical Issues in Assessing Social Programs is a collection of papers presented at the 1973 symposium held at The Battelle Seattle Research Center This book contains eight chapters that consider some selected aspects of the problems in evaluating the outcomes of socially important programs such as those dealing with education health and economic policy The first chapter provides an overview of the issues around the Social Program Evaluation The next chapters deal with the successes and failures brought by social innovations the quasi experimental evaluation in compensatory education to estimate the true effects of such education programs and the usefulness and validity of econometric and related nonexperimental approaches for assessing the effects of social programs These topics are followed by surveys of a number of additional program evaluation studies particularly in the field of family planning or fertility control mostly carried out as experiments or quasi experiments in Asian and Latin American countries Other chapters describe the decision processes that involve explicit assessment of the worth or merit of outcomes and employ multivalued utility analysis and outline the ways in which evaluative data are useful in providing feedback to program or institutional operations and decisions The final chapter discusses resolutions for some of the disagreements expressed by others concerning the role of field experiments constraints in their utilization and other factors that enter into a comprehensive conception of program evaluation
