Asian studies Peasants' Movements in Post-Colonial India Debal K Singharoy, 2004-05-25 This is an investigation of the anatomy and internal dynamics of peasant movements in India It makes a comparative analysis of the Tebhaga Bengal 1946 47 Telengana Andhra 1948 52 and Naxalite North Bengal 1967 71 movements to study the ways in which grassroots mobilizations transform and institutionalize themselves forge new collective identities and articulate new strategies for survival and resistance The author uses empirical data and secondary research to argue that radicalism in peasant movements is in inverse proportion to institutionalization As spontaneous expressions of discontent against oppression and marginalization become institutionalized movements the space for radical challenge shrinks Therefore in Bengal the co option of the peasant movement by the ruling communist party and the state has largely killed the scope for radical action In Andhra Pradesh on the other hand the relative independence of the grassroots mobilization process along with logistic and ideological inputs from NGOs and radical social and Naxalite groups has allowed the peasantry to exercise multiple options for collective action However in both cases the grassroots mobilization has led to a transformation of the social identity of the peasant and created a social environment in which issues of dominance and resistance have an important place The study of the Indian experience is placed in the context of theories of peasant identity and resistance to oppression The first chapter of the book is devoted to the summing up of sociological perspectives on peasant societies identities and movements It includes references to the works of Marx and Lenin Redfield Chayanov Wolf and Gramsci and in the Indian context Beteille Byres and several others The book reexamines problems that have got relatively less importance in recent years It seeks to understand issues that are of enduring relevance in the Indian countryside that continues to simmer with unrest even as it comes to grips with a new economic situation The book will be of as much interest to researchers and policymakers as to the intelligent general reader

Revisiting Muslim Women's Activism Esita Sur, 2022-12-12 This book traces the evolution of organisational activism among Muslim women in India. It deconstructs the Muslim woman as the monolith based on tropes like purdah, polygamy and tin talaq and compels the reader to revisit the question of Muslim women's individual and collective agency. The book argues that the political field along with religion moulds the nature and scope of Muslim women's activism in India. It looks at the objectives of four Muslim women's organisations: the Bazm e Niswan, the Awaaz e Niswaan, the Bharatiya Muslim Mahila Andolan and the India International Women's Alliance (IIWA) in close interaction with the political landscape of Mumbai. The book explores the emergence of gender-inclusive interpretation of Muslim women's rights by Muslim women activists and challenges the dominant and reductionist stereotypes on Muslim women's community and absolutist ideas of Islam. It argues that Muslim women are not passive victims of their culture and religion; rather, they can develop a critique of their marginality and subjugation from within the community. Revisiting Muslim Women's Activism traces the evolution of a community-centric approach in women's activism and records a fragmented view on women's rights from within the community and religious leadership. It also delineates the distinctiveness of this activism that considers religion and culture as resources for empowerment and as sites of contestations. Moreover, the book documents the narratives of Muslim women's struggle and resistance from their location and lived experiences. It will be of interest to students and researchers of women's studies, gender studies, political science, sociology, anthropology, law and Islamic studies.
