Social Psychology Of Collective Action Identity Injustice And Gender:

The Social Psychology of Collective Action Sara Breinlinger, Caroline Kelly, 2014-04-23 In recent years there has been a growth of single issue campaigns in western democracies and a proliferation of groups attempting to exert political influence and achieve social change In this context it is important to consider why individuals do or don't get involved in collective action for example in the trade union movement and the women's movement Social psychologists have an important contribution to make in addressing this question The social psychological approach directly concerns the relationship between the individual and society and a number of theories have been developed in the field particularly by contemporary European researchers Yet surprisingly there has never been until now a concerted attempt to bring these various strands of research together in a coherent detailed presentation of the social psychological approach to collective action The authors of The Social Psychology of Collective Action review and integrate a number of theories developed in this field as well as presenting their own original research and data The research discussed in the book ranges over a number of different contexts with a particular focus on women's groups organizing around issues of gender Questions addressed include why do women get involved in women's groups What part is played by experiences of discrimination in the family and in the workplace What are the benefits of group involvement How are feminist activists perceived by others who choose not to get involved Findings from questionnaires and interviews are integrated with contemporary social psychological theory especially social identity theory

European Review of Social Psychology Wolfgang Stroebe, Miles Hewstone, 2005-02-24 The European Review of Social Psychology is an annual series that reflects the dynamism of social psychology in Europe and has been widely accepted as one of the most important international series in social psychology The series is open to authors from all nations and its primary purpose is to further the international exchange of ideas by providing an outlet for substantial accounts of theoretical and empirical work With the help of an editorial board consisting of senior scholars from various European countries Australasia and North America the editors invite outstanding researchers to contribute to these volumes Invitations are based either on suggestions from editorial board members or made in response to proposals submitted to the editors The emphasis of these contributions is on critical assessment of major areas of research and of substantial individual programmes of research as well as on topics and initiatives of contemporary interest and originality
