Southeast Asia Donald G McCloud, 2018-02-07 Bridging the perceived gap between Southeast Asia's historical and contemporary situations Donald McCloud focuses on continuities in the region's internal dynamics as well as its relationship to the greater global environment The author challenges widely held views that diversity and fragmentation are the hallmarks of the region identifying instead the commonalities that have bound the countries of Southeast Asia together through at least two millennia and have provided the basis for a unique regional dynamic It has only been since World War II that Southeast Asians long influenced by the global environment have defined and developed their own institutions social structures and communities Turning away from inadequate and unadaptable Western institutions they have begun to create structures more in tune with their own historical experiences Particularly in the political sphere many of these new structures seemed to be straightforward military dictatorships However time has shown them to be more complex and many unique organizational practices have developed that may presage more open political systems if not democracies by strict Western definitions With the expansion of regional cooperation through ASEAN and strong economic growth confidence among Southeast Asian states has grown as well The growing references to an Asian way of life have given verbal expression to a surge in neotraditional values and behavior that have always been part of the fabric of Asian life but that in the past were frowned upon as nonwestern This text traces the evolution of Southeast Asia and focuses for the first time on the neotraditional bases for contemporary independent development of the region

Environmental Cooperation in Southeast Asia Paruedee Nguitragool, 2010-10-04 One of the most challenging environmental threats to the ten countries of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN has been the haze the sickening and deadly cloud of smoky pollution caused by widespread burning of land and forests in Indonesia This book examines both the threat and response to it by analysing environmental cooperation in Southeast Asia from an international regime perspective Tracing the development of regional cooperation on the haze and evaluating the effectiveness of the cooperation the author argues that the haze crisis combined with the economic crisis of 1997 has profoundly challenged the ASEAN modus operandi and resulted in ASEAN's efforts to establish an environmental regime to cope with environmental challenges. The emerging ASEAN haze regime is a unique case study of a regional environmental institution in multi-levelled global environmental governance. Based on in-depth original research, this case study is integrated into international relations, political science, and comparative political analysis literatures and contributes to a better understanding of processes within the regional organisation.
