Victor, 2013-11-11. Old age is a part of the lifecycle about which there are numerous myths and stereotypes. To present an overstatement of commonly held beliefs, the old are portrayed as dependent individuals characterized by a lack of social autonomy, unloved and neglected by both their immediate family and friends, and posing a threat to the living standards of younger age groups by being a burden that consumes without producing. Older people are perceived as a single homogeneous group, and the experience of ageing is characterized as being the same for all individuals, irrespective of the diversity of their circumstances before the onset of old age. In this book, detailed statistical material is used to portray the circumstances of older people in modern society in an attempt to evaluate the appropriateness or otherwise of the major stereotypes of later life. This volume does not address ageing from a psychological or micro-social perspective. In particular, we do not explore major issues relating to old age. Rather, we feel that from the extensive collection of surveys concerned with the elderly, we can provide a context within which individual elderly people can be studied from more anthropological or biographical perspectives.
