The Politics of Recognition and Social Justice Maria Pallotta-Chiarolli, Bob Pease, 2013-11-07 Via a wide range of case studies this book examines new forms of resistance to social injustices in contemporary Western societies Resistance requires agency and agency is grounded in notions of the subject and subjectivity How do people make sense of their subjectivity as they are constructed and reconstructed within relations of power What kinds of subjectivities are needed to struggle against forms of dominance and claim recognition The participants in the case studies are challenging forms of dominance and subordination grounded in class race culture nationality sexuality religion age disability and other forms of social division It is a premise of this book that new and or reconstructed forms of subjectivity are required to challenge social relations of subordination and domination Thus the transformation of subjectivity as well as the restructuring of oppressive power relations is necessary to achieve social justice By examining the construction of subjectivity of particular groups through an intersectional lens the book aims to contribute to theoretical accounts of how subjects are constituted and how they can develop a critical distance from their positioning Practising Social Work in a

Evidence-based Practice in Social Work Ian Mathews, Karin Crawford, 2011-06-16 At a time when the credibility of social work is again being questioned this book offers a critical approach to the debate concerning the reliability and validity of the evidence research and knowledge that underpins professional social work practice It critiques the notion of evidence and argues that knowledge is a much broader more appropriate concept to consider There is analysis of the different components and sources of this knowledge and an exploration of the often discordant interface between practice and knowledge Finally it supports the view that knowledge can be actively developed and tested by a range of people Critical Social Work June Allan, Linda Briskman, 2020-07-16 Another important contribution to the growing literature on critical social work It is on the cutting edge of thinking about social work and its goal of social change Kate van Heugten Social Work Review Critical Social Work starts from the premise that a central goal of social work practice is social change to redress social inequality Taking a critical theoretical approach the authors explore the links between personal and social change
