

Socialization

- The process by which humans become self-aware and knowledgeable about the culture in which they were born.
- Social reproduction is the process by which societies have structural continuity over time through continual socialization.

Contemporary Introduction to Sociology Jeffrey C. Alexander, Kenneth Thompson, Laura Desfor Edles, 2016-01-08 The first edition of A Contemporary Introduction to Sociology was the first truly new introductory sociology textbook in decades Written by two leading sociologists at the cutting edge of theory and research the text reflected the idioms and interests of contemporary American life and global social issues The second edition continues to invite students to reflect upon their lives within the context of the combustible leap from modern to postmodern life The authors show how culture is central to understanding many world problems as they challenge readers to confront the risks and potentialities of a postmodern era in which the futures of both the physical and social environment seem uncertain As culture rapidly changes in the 21st century the authors have broadened their analysis to cover developments in social media and new data on gender and transgender issues

The 5-year Outlook on Science and Technology, 1981, 1981 They Make Themselves Jane Fajans, 1997-08-04 For generations of anthropologists the Baining people have presented a challenge because of their apparent lack of cultural or social structure This group of small scale horticulturists seems devoid of the complex belief systems and social practices that characterize other traditional peoples of Papua New Guinea Their daily existence is mundane and repetitive in the extreme articulated by only the most elementary familial relationships and social connections The routine of everyday life however is occasionally punctuated by stunningly beautiful festivals of masked dancers which the Baining call play and to which they attribute no symbolic significance In a new work sure to evoke considerable repercussions and debate in anthropological theory Jane Fajans courageously takes on the Baining Problem arguing that the Baining define themselves not through intricate cosmologies or social networks but through the meanings generated by their own productive and reproductive work
