Society And The Supernatural In Song China:

Society and the Supernatural in Song China Edward L. Davis, 2001-06-01 Society and the Supernatural in Song China is at once a meticulous examination of spirit possession and exorcism in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries and a social history of the full panoply of China's religious practices and practitioners at the moment when she was poised to dominate the world economy Although the Song dynasty 960-1276 is often identified with the establishment of Confucian orthodoxy Edward Davis demonstrates the renewed vitality of the dynasty's Taoist Buddhist and local religious traditions He charts the rise of hundreds of new temple cults and the lineages of clerical exorcists and vernacular priests the increasingly competitive interaction among all practitioners of therapeutic ritual and the wide social range of their patrons and clients

Performing Filial Piety in Northern Song China Cong Ellen Zhang, 2020-09-30 Educated men in Song dynasty China 960-1279 traveled frequently in search of scholarly and bureaucratic success These extensive periods of physical mobility took them away from their families homes and native places for long periods of time preventing them from fulfilling their most sacred domestic duty filial piety to their parents In this deeply grounded work Cong Ellen Zhang locates the tension between worldly ambition and family duty at the heart of elite social and cultural life Drawing on more than two thousand funerary biographies and other official and private writing Zhang argues that the predicament in which Song literati found themselves diminished neither the importance of filial piety nor the appeal of participating in examinations and government service On the contrary the Northern Song witnessed unprecedented literati activity and state involvement in the bolstering of ancient forms of filial performances and the promotion of new ones The result was the triumph of a new filial ideal luyang By labeling highly coveted honors and privileges attainable solely through scholarly and official accomplishments as the most celebrated filial acts the luyang rhetoric elevated office holding men to be the most filial of sons Consequently the proper performance of filiality became essential to scholar official identity and self representation Zhang convincingly demonstrates that this reconfiguration of elite male filiality transformed filial piety into a status and gender based virtue a change that had wide implications for elite family life and relationships in the Northern Song The separation of elite men from their parents and homes also made the idea of native place increasingly fluid This development in turn generated an interest in family preservation as filial performance Individually initiated kinship and native place based projects flourished and coalesced with the moral and cultural visions of leading scholar intellectuals providing the social and familial foundations for the ascendancy of Neo Confucianism as well as new cultural norms that transformed Chinese society in the Song and beyond Death

Rituals and Politics in Northern Song China Mihwa Choi, 2017-10-03 This study examines how political and legal disputes regarding the performance of death rituals contributed to shape a revival of Confucianism in eleventh century Northern Song China Structures of Governance in Song Dynasty China, 960-1279 CE Charles Hartman, 2023-04-06 A groundbreaking revisionist history of the workings of governance in Imperial China centered on the Song Dynasty 960

1279 BCE China John Lagerwey, 2010-12-01 Over the last 40 years our vision of Chinese culture and history has been transformed by the discovery of the role of religion in Chinese state making and in local society The Daoist religion in particular long despised as superstitious has recovered its place as the native higher religion But while the Chinese state tried from the fifth century on to construct an orthodoxy based on Confucianism Daoism and Buddhism local society everywhere carved out for itself its own geomantically defined space and organized itself around local festivals in honor of gods of its own choosing gods who were often invented and then represented by illiterate mediums Looking at China from the point of view of elite or popular culture therefore produces very different results John Lagerwey has done extensive fieldwork on local society and its festivals This book represents a first attempt to use this new research to integrate top down and bottom up views of Chinese society culture and history It should be of interest to a wide range of China specialists students of religion and popular culture as well as participants in the ongoing interdisciplinary dialogue between historians and anthropologists John Lagerwey is professor of Daoist history at the cole Pratique des Hautes tudes and of Chinese studies at the Chinese University of Hong Kong He is author of Taoist Ritual in Chinese Society and History and editor of the 30 volume Traditional Hakka Society Series as well as the recently published four volume set Early Chinese Religion

AJi'an Literati and the Local in Song-Yuan-Ming China Anne Gerritsen, 2007 Drawing on largely local sources including local gazetteers and literati inscriptions for religious sites this book offers a comprehensive examination of what it means to be local during the Southern Song Yuan and Ming dynasties in Ji an prefecture Jiangxi It argues that belonging locally was important to Ji an literati throughout this period How they achieved that however changed significantly Southern Song and Yuan literati wrote about religious sites from within their local communities but their early Ming counterparts wrote about local temples from their posts at the capital seeking to transform local sites from a distance By the late Ming temples had been superseded by other sites of local activism including community compacts lineage prefaces and community covenants Religion and Chinese Society Vol. 2 John Lagerwey, 2021-09-24 Thirty years ago Hu Shih s views of Chinese society and history were representative of Sinology in general China itself had no native religion just local customs its only real religion was an import Buddhism These views have now been completely overturned with massive implications for our understanding not only of China but also of humanity as a whole it is no longer possible to imagine that at least one major traditional society constructed and construed itself without reference to a non mundane world that permeated every facet of society and it therefore becomes indispensable for students of China to take the history of Chinese religion into account and for students of religion to take into account the Chinese experience of and Chinese categories for dealing with religious phenomena The present volumes contain a selection of twenty one essays presented in a conference convened jointly by the Ecole francaise d Extreme Orient and the Centre for the Study of Religion and Chinese Society of the Chinese University of Hong Kong on Religion and Chinese Society The Transformation of a Field and Its Implications for the Study of Chinese

Esther Maria Guggenmos Andrew Schonebaum and Stephanie Homola A History of East Asia Charles Holcombe, 2017-01-11 Charles Holcombe begins by asking the question what is East Asia In the modern age many of the features that made the region now defined as including China Japan Korea and Vietnam distinct have been submerged by the effects of revolution politics or globalization Yet as an ancient civilization the region had both an historical and cultural coherence This shared past is at the heart of this ambitious book which traces the story of East Asia from the dawn of history to the twenty first century The second edition has been imaginatively revised and expanded to place emphasis on cross cultural interactions and connections both within East Asia and beyond with new material on Vietnam and modern pop culture The second edition also features a Chinese character list additional maps and new illustrations The Religious Question in Modern China Vincent Goossaert, David A. Palmer, 2011-03-15 Recent events from strife in Tibet and the rapid growth of Christianity in China to the spectacular expansion of Chinese Buddhist organizations around the globe vividly demonstrate that one cannot understand the modern Chinese world without attending closely to the question of religion The Religious Question in Modern China highlights parallels and contrasts between historical events political regimes and cultural movements to explore how religion has challenged and responded to secular Chinese modernity from 1898 to the present Vincent Goossaert and David A Palmer piece together the puzzle of religion in China not by looking separately at different religions in different contexts but by writing a unified story of how religion has shaped and in turn been shaped by modern Chinese society From Chinese medicine and the martial arts to communal temple cults and revivalist redemptive societies the authors demonstrate that from the nineteenth century onward as the Chinese state shifted the religious landscape consistently resurfaced in a bewildering variety of old and new forms The Religious Question in Modern China integrates historical anthropological and sociological perspectives in a comprehensive overview of China's religious history that is certain to become an indispensable reference for specialists and students alike Portrait of a Community Hugh R. Clark, 2007 Portrait of a Community examines emerging kinship structures as embedded in the social and cultural history of a river valley in a central coastal Fujian province from the ninth through thirteenth centuries The book demonstrates how cultural innovation often begins at a local level Animals Through Chinese History Roel Sterckx, Martina Siebert, Dagmar Schäfer, 2019 This innovative collection opens a door into the rich history of animals in China This title is also available as Open Access
