Sociology and Development David Hulme, Mark M. Turner, 1990 Sociology and Development David Hulme, Mark M. Turner, 1990-01-01 Cultivating Transformative Reconciliation Line Merethe Skum, John Klaasen, Bernd Krukpa, Ray Aldred, 2024-10-29

Are Truth and Reconciliation Commission processes enough to achieve reconciliation This volume discusses issues that arise once the task of reconciliation emanates from the limited scope of a specific Truth and Reconciliation Commission and into the larger society and political system that originated it Scholars spanning several research fields from law to history to theology discuss how transformative reconciliation can be cultivated in a society using decolonization and other perspectives along three lines by specifying transformative issues and processes in law and politics by criticizing historical perspectives on the past and its concepts as deliberations of the status quo and by instilling the inherent dynamics of truth and reconciliation processes as permanent features within broader society The volume embarks on an investigation of the Norwegianization policy a historical framework that brought injustices upon minority groups such as the Sami and Kvens Norwegian Finns in Norway and parallel groups in Sweden and Finland It extends its exploration to analogous unjust policies in South Africa Canada and various other contexts Within the complex web of cultural social political and economic struggles stemming from colonial policies the roles of religion politics research institutions and civil society are critically examined Psychology and the Developing World Stuart C. Carr, John F. Schumaker, 1996-04-18

Previous leading commentators on the development of psychology in the Third World have conceived of three major stages an attempt to assimilate Western psychology with predictably negative results the study of indigenous constructs with more relevant applications and finally transcending stage one and stage two to choose theories and methods on their applied merit alone Psychology and the Developing World has been assembled to document how close psychology has come to researching that stage Contributors were carefully selected to provide a unique overview of the latest applications of the discipline as a whole Their work reveals how psychology is being applied to educational needs management needs and health needs This book shows how development studies and allied disciplines cannot ignore psychology's potential for the Third World The Political Economy of Investment in Syria Linda Matar, 2016-02-26 Linda Matar examines Syria's failure to promote employment generating investment prior to the uprising Tackling the thorny issue of the inapplicability of modern investment theory to a developing country she situates the analysis of investment in Syria in its historical context and examines the socioeconomic structure and political preconditions that set the course of capital accumulation Matar argues that the class in charge of development which oversaw the allocation of resources during the Hafiz and Bashar Assad regimes precipitated a crisis of capital accumulation Difficult to access data and information compiled from fieldwork reveal how neoliberal reforms failed to build productive capacity and instead enriched a few through short term speculative and mercantile ventures Productive investment in Syria prior to the uprising lurched downward and the key related socio economic variables followed These deteriorating conditions contributed to the social explosion in 2011 Exploring the poor quality and quantity of investment this study probes how the cant of the free market served as a veneer behind which the institutional decisions distorted income distribution in a way that would inevitably lead to collapse The Politics of Knowledge in Central Asia Sarah

Amsler,2007-04-24 Through careful historical and ethnographic research and extensive use of local scholarly works this book provides a persuasive and careful analysis of the production of knowledge in Central Asia The author demonstrates that classical theories of science and society are inadequate for understanding the science project in Central Asia Instead a critical understanding of local science is more appropriate In the region the professional and political ethos of Marxism Leninism was incorporated into the logic of science on the periphery of the Soviet empire This book reveals that science organizes and constructed by Soviet rule was also defined by individual efforts of local scientists Their work to establish themselves between Marx and the market is therefore creating new political economies of knowledge at the edge of the scientific world system Fire on the Rim William H. Thornton,2002 Fire on the Rim combines an idealist s call for social justice cultural difference and environmental sustainability with a realist s recognition of the continuing need for balance of power security relations around the Pacific Rim Although this melding of idealist and realist elements is sure to meet opposition on the Right and Left alike the author s call for moral realism is a vital step toward an Asia policy fit for the twenty first century Visit our website for sample chapters Governance, Management and Development David Hulme,Mark Turner,Willy McCourt,2015-07-20 This fully revised edition of the same authors Governance Administration and Development is the ideal introduction to public management and the policy process in developing countries With a new chapter on issues of law and order it also covers current debates on civil society aid and intervention and the relationship of states and markets

Profiles in Indian Tourism Shalini Singh,1996 Critical Theories of Globalization C. el-Ojeili,P. Hayden,2006-07-28 This accessible text provides a comprehensive overview of globalization and its consequences from the perspective of social and political critical theory Thematic chapters provoke student inquiry and the book shows how the views of critical theorists are crucial to understanding the global processes shaping the world today Creating the Third Force Maureen P.

Flaherty,Hamdesa Tusso,2016-11-21 The profession of peacemaking has been practiced by indigenous communities around the world for many centuries however the ethnocentric world view of the West which dominated the world of ideas for the last five centuries dismissed indigenous forms of peacemaking as irrelevant and backward tribal rituals Neither did indigenous forms of peacemaking fit the conception of modernization and development of the new ruling elites who inherited the postcolonial state The new profession of Alternative Dispute Resolution ADR which emerged in the West as a new profession during the 1970s neglected the tradition and practice of indigenous forms of peacemaking The scant literature which has appeared on this critical subject tends to focus on the ritual aspect of the indigenous practices of peacemaking The goal of this book is to fill this lacuna in scholarship More specifically this work focuses on the process of peacemaking exploring the major steps of process of peacemaking which the peacemakers follow in dislodging antagonists from the stage of hostile confrontation to peaceful resolution of disputes and eventual reconciliation The book commences with a critique of ADR for neglecting indigenous processes of peacemaking and then utilizes case studies from different communities around the world to focus on the following major themes the basic structure of peacemaking process change and continuity in the traditions of peacemaking the role of indigenous women in peacemaking the nature of the tools peacemakers deploy common features found in indigenous processes of peacemaking and the overarching goals of peacemaking activities in indigenous communities

Gender and Peacebuilding Maureen P. Flaherty, Thomas G. Matyók, Sean Byrne, Hamdesa Tusso, 2015-10-16

The twenty first century has brought with it a shift from the notion of human security being located in secure national borders to the need to secure the safety freedom and dignity of all Despite efforts to equalize women s status in the world evidenced by changes in many international projects requiring a gender focus women and men experience most of the world in very different ways according to gender Further the reality is that humans who do not all fall neatly into one of these categories male or female often find their lives further challenged In the 1980s Peace and Conflict Studies first began to acknowledge and study the different experiences males and females have during war and peace Since then there have been books about women and war women working at grassroots levels to build peace women and transitional justice women and peace education and women s views of human security All of these works have contributed to the discourse of our changing world This book brings together some of those themes and voices and adds more with the final product being more than the sum of its parts We add to the conversation a book that considers foundational fundamental issues that span from the interpersonal to the global Many of the chapters describe empirical research completed with author and community shared here for the first time Part One is a collection of case studies documenting challenges and responses to peacebuilding by women from various parts of the world Part Two focuses on Peace and Conflict Studies PACS as a discipline examining not only what is but also what should be taught This section critiques today s efforts at teaching Peace and Conflict Studies and provides suggestions of how this important work might be shared in more open and equitable ways Part Three enters territory found even less in the PACS literature In this section our authors confront patriarchy engage in a discussion about the contribution queer theory makes to PACS and tussle with the notion of inclusivity with considerations of both gender and disability It then ends with a discussion about the contribution feminist methodologies make to PACS

Changing Big Business Anna Hutchens, 2009 This is an important and valuable contribution both to our understanding of fair trade and the broader context in which it operates Dr Hutchens develops an exciting new theory and presents extensive original empirical work to construct a rigorous and at times challenging argument concerning the limits and opportunities for the fair trade movement going forward Alex Nicholls University of Oxford UK Drawing on candid accounts from practitioners producers rural development approaches The early phase of development approach which was at macro level targeting the mass of rural poverty since the poverty incidence was high The goal of rural development was two prongs to develop the economy infrastructure and facility of the rural areas and to alleviate poverty As the incidence of poverty has reduced remarkably the development approach has separated from the poverty alleviation programmes Development initiatives was more to provide basic urban infrastructure and facilities to develop human resources through skill training and improve level of education of the rural residents In addition rural development provides employment opportunities through decentralization of industrial sector to rural areas and fosters entrepreneurship activities Meanwhile the poverty alleviation programmes are tackled at micro level that is more towards individual or a household level The outbreak of COVID 19 pandemic alters the approach of rural development focusing on providing facilities services and assistance to preserve the well being of rural community especially the low income group

Challenging Global Inequality Alastair Greig, David Hulme, Mark Turner, 2007-01-16

This major introductory text written by 3 leading names in the field provides an accessible overview of the challenges faced in overcoming global poverty and inequality in the 21st century Through an in depth assessment of development theory and practice the authors set out to advance two key arguments the first being the importance of historically contextualizing contemporary developmental problems in order to assess policy proposals and the second that inequality matters and how this notion has continually remained a central feature of development debates from colonial times to present day Ideal for undergraduate students taking development modules as part of political science and international relations degrees this engaging text proves to be essential reading when exploring the impacts of development on today s international political economy With each chapter covering inequalities from all different angles the authors clearly outline the impact of models such as globalization and neoliberalism as well as offering alternative views on the challenges posed by the UN s Millennium Development Goals Also available is a companion website with extra features to accompany the text please take a look by clicking below https://www.palgrave.com/companion/Greig/Challenging_Global_Inequality
