WHAT'S NORMAL?

Aging itself doesn't seem to account for sleep complaints in older adults. If you're not happy with your sleep, talk with your doctor about possible causes and healthy ways to improve it, says Johns Hopkins sleep researcher Adam Spira, Ph.D.

Reviews on New Drug Targets in Age-Related Disorders Paul C. Guest, 2020-04-17 Aging is an inevitable part of life and is becoming a worldwide social economic and health problem This is mainly due to the fact that the increasing proportion of individuals in the advanced age category have a higher probability of developing age related disorders such as type II diabetes mellitus cardiovascular disorders sarcopenia and neurodegenerative conditions New therapeutic approaches are still needed to decrease or slow the effects of such diseases Advances in omic technologies such as genomics transcriptomics proteomics and metabolomics have significantly advanced our understanding of disease in multiple medical areas as the analysis of multiple molecular networks has simultaneously provided a more integrated view of disease pathways. It is hoped that emerging hits from these analyses might be prioritized for further screening as potential novel drug targets for increasing the human healthspan in line with the lifespan. In turn, this will lead to new therapeutic strategies as well as drug development projects by the pharmaceutical industry. This book presents a series of reviews describing studies that have resulted in identification of new potential drug targets for age-related disorders. Much of this information has come from omic comparisons of healthy and disease states or from testing the effects of new therapeutic approaches. Authored by experts from around the globe, each chapter is presented in the context of specific chronic diseases or therapeutic strategies. This book is designed for researchers in the areas of aging and chronic disease as well as clinical scientists, physicians, and stakeholders in major drug companies.

Handbook of the Neuroscience of Aging Patrick R. Hof, Charles V. Mobbs, 2010-05-22. A single volume of 85 articles, the Handbook of the Neurobiology of Aging is an authoritative selection of relevant chapters from the Encyclopedia of Neuroscience, the most comprehensive source of neuroscience information assembled to date. AP Oct 2008. The study of neural aging is a central topic in neuroscience, neuropsychology, and gerontology. Some well-known age-related neurological diseases include Parkinson's and Alzheimer's, but even more common are problems of aging which are not due to disease but to more subtle impairments in neurobiological systems, including impairments in vision, memory loss, muscle weakening, and loss of reproductive functions, changes in body weight, and sleeplessness. As the average age of our society increases, diseases of aging become more common, and conditions associated with aging need more attention by doctors and researchers. This book offers an overview of topics related to neurobiological impairments which are related to the aging brain and nervous system. Coverage ranges from animal models to human imaging, fundamentals of age-related neural changes, and pathological neurodegeneration, and offers an overview of structural and functional changes at the molecular, systems, and cognitive levels. Key pathologies such as memory disorders, Alzheimer's dementia, Down syndrome, Parkinson's, and stroke are discussed, as are cutting-edge interventions such as cell replacement therapy and deep brain stimulation. There is no other current single-volume reference with such a comprehensive coverage and depth. Authors selected are the internationally renowned experts for the particular topics on which they write, and the volume is richly illustrated with over 100 color figures. A collection of articles reviewing our fundamental knowledge of neural aging, the book provides an essential, affordable reference for scientists in all areas of Neuroscience, Neuropsychology, and Gerontology. The most comprehensive source of up-to-date data on the neurobiology of aging, review articles cover normal sensory and cognitive aging, neuroendocrine, structural, and molecular factors, and fully address both pathology and intervention. Chapters represent an authoritative selection of relevant material from the most comprehensive source of information about neuroscience ever assembled, the Encyclopedia of Neuroscience, synthesizing information otherwise dispersed across a number of journal articles and book chapters, and saving researchers the time-consuming process of finding and integrating this information themselves Offering outstanding scholarship each chapter is written by an expert in the topic area and over 20% of chapters feature international contributors representing 11 countries Provides more fully vetted expert knowledge than any existing work with broad appeal for the US UK and Europe accurately crediting the contributions to research in those regions Fully explores various pathologies associated with the aging brain Alzheimer s dementia Parkinson s memory disorders stroke Down s syndrome etc Coverage of disorders and key interventions makes the volume relevant to clinicians as well as researchers Heavily illustrated with over 100 color figures
