Reforming the Art of Dying Austra Reinis, 2007 This study focuses on the earliest of Protestant handbooks that addressed the subject of death and dying Beginning with Luther's Sermon on Preparing to Die in 1519 and ending with Jakob Otter's Christlich leben und sterben in 1528 it explores how Luther and his colleagues adopted traditional themes and motifs transforming them to accord with their conviction that Christians could be certain of their salvation It further shows how Luther's colleagues drew on his writings not only his teaching on dying but also other writings including his sermons on the sacraments The study concludes that the assurance of salvation that these works offered represented a significant change from traditional teaching on death

Family Language Transmission Brigitte E. Lambert, 2008 This book examines the whys and wherefores of family language transmission from the perspective of parents as language planners and managers of their linguistic resources It draws on a qualitative interview based study of twenty families in which German is was or could have been the target language Successive census analyses have charted a marked decline in the number of German speakers in Australia indicating that motivation for transmitting German has waned The situations where it is presently being transmitted are therefore particularly interesting Data analysis was facilitated by a decision map depicting the planning implementation and outcome phases of the transmission undertaking The main findings show that the parents' decision is negotiated around their own needs interests and ambitions in terms of child focussed reciprocal and parent centred motives These in turn are linked to transmission strategies and the linguistic outcomes for the children Through an understanding of the motivational issues arising in this context it will hopefully be possible to better predict the effectiveness of the transmission strategies presently applied

Flügel-Schmidt-Tanger Wörterbuch der englischen und deutschen Sprache Immanuel Schmidt, 1907 Poetry and Parental Bereavement in Early Modern Lutheran Germany Anna Linton, 2008-04-10 In early modern Europe it has been estimated that up to one in two children did not survive to the age of ten In the light of this high mortality rate some historians have argued that parents did not form close relationships with their children especially the very young This is clearly refuted by the testimony of bereaved parents such as Martin Luther and by the volume of consolatory writings produced for grieving families in early modern Lutheran Germany The authors clergymen and lay people regarded grief as a deep wound which required treatment and they applied the balm of consolation through sermons tracts and occasional poetry This study analyses these writings focusing particularly on the neglected genre of the epicedium funeral poem It asks how and why poetry was used to counter the affective impact of parental bereavement and considers what makes it a suitable vehicle for consolation The poems which are analyzed against the contemporary theological philosophical and poetological background are taken from Leichenpredigten printed funeral booklets as well as from collections by two contrasting poets Paul Fleming 1609 40 an unmarried man who wrote to console others and Margarethe Susanna von Kuntsch 1651 1717 who lost thirteen of her fourteen children The study seeks to rehabilitate a neglected genre and participates in discussions on the sociology of death Lutheran teachings about death and mourning literary presentations of mortality and loss and the depiction of children and parent child relations in literature
