Inglis,2014-11-01 Despite the introduction of new technologies for classrooms many seminary courses still utilize primarily auditory methods to convey content Course outcomes may include opportunities for learners to demonstrate knowledge and skills gained but may not include opportunities for learners to begin to embed knowledge and skills into their long term memory Educators are engaging with neuroscientists to reshape classroom practices content delivery curriculum design and physical classroom spaces to enhance students learning and memory primarily in elementary and secondary education Why not in seminary education An overview of how learning occurs in our brain what the different types of memory are and how memory is created serves as a framework for suggesting pedagogical tools These brain friendly tools are specifically applied to individual academic disciplines enabling instructors to make concrete modifications in the structure and content of what is taught making learning more sticky Inglis s synopsis of the use of neuroscience in the classroom and suggested action is followed by a collaborative dialogue with Kathy L Dawson and Rodger Y Nishioka Dawson and Nishioka provide practical commentary regarding the successful implementation of Inglis s proposed approach As a group Inglis Dawson and Nishioka create a text that extends pedagogical innovation in inspiring but practical ways God in the Modern Wing Cameron J. disciplined spiritual stewardship and grounded in radically covenantal companionship Just like artisanal bread blends the classical methods of bread baking with modern conveniences so an artisanal theology relies upon the personal and communal touch of human relationship amidst the contemporary forms of programmatic theological education An artisanal theology offers an articulate and traditionally rooted faith perspective grounded in covenantal companionships sustained in contexts of church tradition and most importantly practice Ultimately an artisanal theology witnesses beyond the anticipated political divides to the Triune God among us known in a theologically expressive delight able to companion the suffering of self and others
