Engagement Corey Dolgon, Tania D. Mitchell, Timothy K. Eatman, 2017-02-01 With contributions from leading experts across disciplinary fields this book explores best practices from the field s most notable researchers as well as important historically based and politically focused challenges to a field whose impact has reached an important crossroads The comprehensive and powerfully critical analysis considers the history of community engagement and service learning best teaching practices and pedagogies engagement across disciplines and current research and policies and contemplates the future of the field The book will not only inform faculty staff and students on ways to improve their work but also suggest a bigger social and political focus for programs intended to seriously establish democracy and social justice in their communities and campuses

The Land-Grant Colleges and the Reshaping of American Higher Education Roger L. Geiger, 2017-07-05 This work provides a critical reexamination of the origin and development of America s land grant colleges and universities created by the most important piece of legislation in higher education The story is divided into five parts that provide closer examinations of representative developments Part I describes the connection between agricultural research and American colleges Part II shows that the responsibility of defining and implementing the land grant act fell to the states which produced a variety of institutions in the nineteenth century Part III details the first phase of the conflict during the latter decades of the nineteenth century about whether land colleges were intended to be agricultural colleges or full academic institutions Part IV focuses on the fact that full fledged universities became dominant institutions of American higher education The final part shows that the land grant mission is alive and well in university colleges of agriculture and in fact is inherent to their identity Including some of the best minds the field has to offer this volume follows in the fine tradition of past books in Transaction s Perspectives on the History of Higher Education series Making Slow Food Fast in California Cuisine Victor W. Geraci,2017-03-02 This book follows the development of industrial agriculture in California and its influence on both regional and national eating habits Early California politicians and entrepreneurs envisioned agriculture as a solution to the food needs of the expanding industrial nation The state s climate geography vast expanses of land water and immigrant workforce when coupled with university research and governmental assistance provided a model for agribusiness In a short time the San Francisco Bay Area became a hub for guaranteeing Americans access to a consistent quantity of quality foods To this end California agribusiness played a major role in national food policies and subsequently produced a bifurcated California Cuisine that sustained both Slow and Fast Food proponents Problems arose as mid twentieth century social activists battled the unresponsiveness of government agencies to corporate greed food safety and environmental sustainability By utilizing multidisciplinary literature and oral histories the book illuminates a more balanced look at how a California Cuisine embraced Slow Food Made Fast Marketing University Outreach Programs Ralph S Foster,William I Sauser,Donald Self,2014-01-14 Discover the successful marketing strategies of programs which have extended the resources of a university to its community Marketing University Outreach Programs covers all aspects of continuing education program construction and the marketing process for positioning the university into the public This book begins to eradicate academicians fears of marketing by showing them a contemporary marketing plan using terminology and examples familiar to them Seventeen contributors professors administrators and outreach professionals comprehensively describe the strategies being successfully used to extend the resources of a university to its community through programs of extension public service and continuing education Although many existing models of the education process contain parallels to elements in a generic marketing process education is not viewed as a consumer product Even educators may not view themselves as marketers involved in a marketing process This attitude can place barriers between understanding the marketing process and how it relates to education Marketing University Outreach Programs helps educators overcome these potential barriers it explains marketing as a comprehensive process using terminology and examples which university extension and education professionals will find familiar and understandable Application oriented it cites numerous examples of how the marketing process can be put to use immediately Each chapter explores in depth a separate segment of the marketing process involved in public university outreach programs issue based versus discipline based programs program delivery and delivery technology funding outreach programs comprehensive promotional strategy customer service long range planning marketing research information resources future trends model programsThis book is of value to the faculty of universities specifically those in the disciplines with a mandate for professional renewal or recertification engineering medicine education faculty and professional staff in divisions of continuing education program leadership in cooperative extension organizations as well as those in other identifiable university extension units and faculty affiliated with applied research centers Members of professional associations focused on higher education outreach can also successfully apply these strategies

Adapting to the Land John F. Freeman, 2022-01-03 Adapting to the Land examines the extent to which Colorado agriculturists adapted to or stretched beyond the limits of land and water Historian John F Freeman and horticultural scientist Mark E Uchanski document the state s agricultural history and provide context for the shift away from traditional forms of agriculture to the use of synthetic fertilizers herbicides and pesticides and most recently to more values driven practices to support the burgeoning popularity of natural and organic foods This shift has resulted in the establishment of the global organic food processing and distribution industry which has roots in Colorado Ancestral Puebloans farmed and grazed within the limits of nature Early settlers adjusted their cultivation methods through trial and error while later agriculturists relied on research and technical advice from the Colorado Agricultural College As part of wartime mobilization the federal government prompted farmers to efficiently increase yields To meet the demand for food and fiber scientific and technical innovations led to the development of new plant cultivars and livestock breeds advances in mechanization and widespread use of synthetic amendments Increasing concern over soil fertility and the loss of irrigation water to urbanization contributed to more changes Despite or perhaps because of what we see today along the Front Range Colorado may still have a chance to slow or even reverse its seemingly unrestrained growth creating a more vibrant earth friendly society in which agriculture plays an increasingly significant part Scientific discoveries and innovations in regenerative cultivation are clearing the path to a more sustainable future Adapting to the Land adds an ecological and horticultural perspective to historical interpretations of recurring agricultural issues in the state and tracks the concept of stewardship suggesting that spiritual beliefs continue to contribute to debates over acceptable agricultural practices and the effects of urbanization upon the land This book will be a key resource for students scholars and general readers interested in agricultural and Colorado history sustainability and rural sociology
