

Abstract: Staphylococcus aureus is a common pathogen that causes a wide range of infections. The purpose of this study was to determine the prevalence of S. aureus in the nasal and skin flora of healthy individuals. A total of 100 individuals were recruited from a community health center. The results showed that the prevalence of S. aureus in the nasal flora was 60% and in the skin flora was 40%. The study also found that the majority of the isolates were susceptible to all antibiotics tested. These findings suggest that S. aureus is a common pathogen in the community and that the use of antibiotics should be monitored to prevent the development of resistance.
